Dominican Rebel Leader Declares He'll Not Retreat

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Col. Francisco Caamano Deno met a U.S. representative for the first time since the Dominican rebels named him provisional president, then vowed Tuesday night he would not "take a step backward."

Caamano conferred at his headquarters with former Ambassador John Bartlow Martin, President Johnson's special envoy. The talk aroused speculation that the rebel leader would meet soon with Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, president of the rival civilian-military junta.

Msgr. Emanuele Clarizio, papal nuncio to the Dominican Republic, sat in on the talk between Caamano and Martin and said later he was "highly optimistic" of a settlement of the 17-day-old civil war.

Caamano, however, in an address over the rebel-held Radio Santo Domingo said: "I will not take a step backward in spite of the enormous U.S. force."

He derided the junta as "an inoperative force" and charged anew that President Johnson sent 20,000 soldiers and Marines to the Dominican Republic on the false assumption that the country was threatened by a Communist takover.

Caamano has refused to meet with Imbert until he purges several leading officers from the armed forces. His chief foe is Brig. Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin, commander of the San Isidro training base, who directed the forces that opposed Caamano's rebel forces.

U.S. Embassy officials said Monday that Wessin had agreed to resign but later changed his mind. Imbert said Tuesday he would accept Wessin's resignation "if it is his wish."

The unofficial total of American dead in the Dominican Republic rose to 14.

A U.S. Army lieutenant was killed and seven other paratroopers were wounded Monday night when they were caught in sniper crossfire. The rebels contended the paratroopers were five blocks outside the U.S.-policed international safety zone. A U.S. spokesman said they were inside the zone.

U.S. forces brought up a 106mm field gun and blasted two rooftops where the snipers were believed hidden. At least two Dominican civilians were reported wounded.

A rebel spokesman charged that U.S. troops have killed 22 unarmed civilians and wounded 11 since May 3.

Rusk States U.S. Policy For NATO

Secretary Outlines Plans On Viet Nam, Dominican Isle

LONDON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk explained U.S. policy in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic to the Atlantic Alliance allies today and asked them to show how these delicate problems could be handled any better.

Rusk, newly arrived from Washington, went into a secret session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference hoping for understanding and backing from the 15-nation alliance.

The NATO foreign ministers met for an hour and 15 minutes in a semisecret session—one in which the substance of their remarks were relayed later to newsmen. Then came a secret session limited to delegation heads and one with press officers and other delegation members excluded.

Diplomatic sources said Rusk, in his talks with the Atlantic allies, intended to stress the diplomatic complexities of the Viet Nam problem.

Rusk is expected to tell other members that the Viet Cong seems to be massing its forces, presumably for the seasonal offensive the Communists often launch with the coming of the monsoon season.

Because of the explosive situation in the Dominican Republic, Rusk originally had planned to leave the London conference to Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, who deputized for him at Tuesday's opening session. Then Rusk flew in from Washington overnight.

Informants said several developments at the opening NATO session Tuesday prompted the change of plans.

One development was the unrest voiced over the Viet Nam and Dominican Republic situations. Several foreign ministers expressed uneasiness over these American policies. Maurice Couve de Murville of France said the Vietnamese war would lead to conflict with Communist China or the Soviet Union.

Another factor was a com-

Leathernecks Now Number 14,000 With New Arrivals

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Nearly 1,000 U.S. Army paratroopers and another combat battalion of 1,400 U.S. Marines landed in South Viet Nam today.

The paratroopers are members of the 173rd Airborne Brigade who came by boat from Okinawa to join about 2,000 members of the brigade already in Viet Nam. A U.S. spokesman said they would help defend American installations at the Bien Hoa air base 20 miles north of Saigon.

The Marines landed at Chu Lai, 52 miles southeast of the strategic U.S.-Vietnamese air base at Da Nang. They boosted to 14,000 the force of leathernecks thrown into the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

The Marine landing lacked the usual fanfare of pretty girls with flowers and official welcoming parties. A spokesman called it a "routine administrative affair."

The new arrivals raised the total U.S. military force in Viet Nam to about 46,500 men.

The paratroopers included an artillery battalion which its commander, Lt. Col. Lee E. Surut, 40, of New York City, said would be the Army's "largest single concentration of firepower in the country." He said it is the first Army artillery sent to Viet Nam.

Other men of the brigade who arrived last week already have started some patrol activity in the vicinity of the Bien Hoa base but have not pushed out into the countryside. No contact with the Viet Cong has been reported.

Twelve U.S. Air Force F105 fighter-bombers supported by 12 other planes attacked targets along five highways 160 miles south of Hanoi and then hit the North Vietnamese port of Vinh.

A spokesman said buildings, trenches and a number of oil tankers and other maritime traffic in the harbor of Vinh were hit, then the Thunderchiefs on a second strike sank two 70-foot junks, heavily damaged a third and shot up a num-

Opposes Idea To Finance Program With 1964 Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barry Goldwater has told national Republican officials he opposes the plan of some party conservatives to finance a televised political series with left-over 1964 campaign funds.

Republican Leads Fight On Poll Tax

McCulloch Fronts For LBJ; Celler On Liberals' Side

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican led the charge today as the Johnson administration fought to have the House Judiciary Committee strike an outright ban on state and local poll taxes from the voting-rights bill.

Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio, senior Judiciary Republican, was fronting for the Democratic administration for a good reason: the Democratic chairman wouldn't.

Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York is siding with other liberals — and fighting the White House — on this issue.

President Johnson needed plenty of Republican help Tuesday to keep liberals from attaching a poll-tax ban to the bill in the Senate. He got it on a 49-45 vote, largely because GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen supported him as he has consistently on civil rights legislation.

Twenty - five Republicans joined 24 Democrats to defeat the ban, proposed as an amendment by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. The late President John F. Kennedy's brother was backed by 38 other Democrats and 6 Republicans, including the assistant GOP leader, Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California.

Government Suing Man In Chute Jump

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a move to take "the profit motive out of such dangerous stunts," the federal government is suing Rod Pack, 26, who jumped from an airplane last Jan. 1 and picked up a parachute from a companion in the air.

Pack, of North Hollywood, shared in proceeds from film sales after his chuteless dive near Arvin, Calif., on New Year's Day. He left the plane at 14,600 feet. At 4,000 feet he passed sky diver Bob Allen, 25, of North Hollywood.

Allen handed him a closed parachute and Pack slipped into the harness and pulled the rip cord.

The civil suit filed Tuesday by U.S. Atty. Manuel Real seeks $3,000 in punitive damages from Pack and an identical sum from the pilot, Harold L. Hanes, 41, of Van Nuys, Calif.

The complaint alleges that it is illegal to jump from an airplane without a parachute; that no person may allow another to jump without a parachute and that such action is a hazard to air traffic.

Allen was not mentioned in the suit.

Uncertain Fate In Ohio Senate

Sunday Sales Proposed On Liquor, Wine, Beer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Liquor, wines, and "high" beer could be sold on Sunday under a measure which headed to an uncertain fate today in the Ohio Senate.

Four big-city senators introduced the proposal under which intoxicating beverages could be sold, subject to local option, on Sunday between the hours of 1 p.m. and midnight.

Under present law, only "low" beer, with an alcohol content of no more than 3.2 per cent, may be sold during those hours. The bill up for a vote today would set Ohio's only "dry" period at 2:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sundays.

Sponsors of the measure are Cleveland Democrats David Matia, Anthony Novak, and Ray T. Miller Jr. along with Sen. Michael J. Maloney, Cincinnati Republican.

Bills on the House calendar today include proposals involving the disposition of unclaimed cemetery lots and permitting the display of flasher lights or lanterns on horse - drawn vehicles.

Tuesday's legislative action was highlighted by House defeat of a proposal to lower the voting age from 21 to 19 and passage in the Senate of a bill allowing general health districts to license plumbers.

Debate flared for 45 minutes on the voting age resolution sponsored by Democratic Reps. Anthony O. Calabrese Jr. of Cleveland and Douglas Applegate, D-Jefferson.

The vote was close, with 71 House members favoring the resolution and 62 dissenting. Eighty-three votes, or a three-fifths majority, are needed to place a constitutional amendment on the statewide ballot.

In other action Tuesday, the House passed and sent to the Senate bills to:

—Authorize commissioners of a county or adjoining counties to establish regional transit authorities.

— Require packaged fresh fruit and vegetables to be fully labeled.

—Allow sheriffs to remove vehicles abandoned on private property for more than 72 hours.

—Allow the sale of duplicates of lost hunting licenses for 50 cents.

—Create a board of building standards for licensing and inspection of boiler tanks.

Johnson Bids For Military Pay Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Johnson asked Congress today to give pay increases costing $853 million a year to military personnel and federal white-collar workers.

Johnson, in a special message, proposed a three per cent across-the-board pay raise for all civil service workers, postal employes and members of the foreign service.

The only ones within the executive branch excluded from the proposed increase would be the top policymaking officials and some 600,000 blue-collar workers whose pay already is geared to prevailing wages in the communities where they are based.

For military personnel who have had at least two years of service, an average increase of 4.8 per cent in total compensation — base pay plus allowances and fringe benefits — was proposed. Enlisted men who have served less than two years would get an increase averaging 2.7 per cent.

In another major proposal, Johnson asked Congress to authorize a government wide salary review every four years that would compare federal pay with compensation offered by private industry.

Hearing's Continued Again In 'Slot' Case

A scheduled hearing for Edward Huff, 64, of 4th St., Chester, was continued for the third time this morning by Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland.

Huff, a steward at Chester American Legion Post 121, was arrested by Sheriff Joe Rodak's deputies April 21 and charged with possession of gaming devices. Nine slot machines were confiscated by deputies in that raid.

Huff originally was scheduled to appear before Squire Herron April 28, after posting a $500 bond. The hearing was continued until May 5, then May 12 at the request of Miss Callie Tsapis, Weirton Attorney, to allow more time to prepare Huff's defense.

This morning, Herron continued the hearing until May 19, on the basis of an agreement between the prosecuting attorney and Miss Tsapis.

Two witnesses in the case are ill and are unavailable at present, Herron said.

Rendezvous Set Tonight

Unmanned Soviet Craft Heads For Moon Landing

MOSCOW (AP) — The unmanned Soviet spaceship Lunik 5 hurtled toward a rendezvous with the moon tonight. The Russians hoped it would land gently and start sending back information needed for a manned flight to the moon.

The 3,250-pound spacecraft, launched Sunday from an orbiting earth satellite, was expected to come down gently near the moon's south pole on a plain known as the Sea of Clouds.

The official news agency Tass said that at 2 a.m. Moscow time — 6 p.m. EST Tuesday — Lunik 5 was 29,000 miles from the moon and 206,250 miles from the earth. Tass said it would reach the moon about 10:15 p.m. — 2:15 p.m. EST.

The United States does not plan to soft-land an instrument package on the moon until 1966.

If Lunik 5 succeeds in letting itself down gently on the moon's surface, it will take two big steps forward in the space race:

1. It can sit on the surface and radio back to earth data of a kind that it has not been possible to obtain from photographs made by craft that crashed into the moon.

2. It will show whether a man can land on the moon with presently available types of space systems.

Tass said that "elements of the system of soft landing on the moon are being tried out for the first time on the automatic station Lunik 5."

An earlier version of this announcement said only that the spacecraft carried equipment for a soft landing.

Previous Soviet and American moon shots have either crashed into the moon, stopping the flow

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Johnson asked Congress today to give pay increases costing $853 million a year to military personnel and federal white-collar workers.

Johnson, in a special message, proposed a three per cent across-the-board pay raise for all civil service workers, postal employes and members of the foreign service.

The only ones within the executive branch excluded from the proposed increase would be the top policymaking officials and some 600,000 blue-collar workers whose pay already is geared to prevailing wages in the communities where they are based.

For military personnel who have had at least two years of service, an average increase of 4.8 per cent in total compensation — base pay plus allowances and fringe benefits — was proposed. Enlisted men who have served less than two years would get an increase averaging 2.7 per cent.

In another major proposal, Johnson asked Congress to authorize a government wide salary review every four years that would compare federal pay with compensation offered by private industry.

Hearing's Continued Again In 'Slot' Case

A scheduled hearing for Edward Huff, 64, of 4th St., Chester, was continued for the third time this morning by Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland.

Huff, a steward at Chester American Legion Post 121, was arrested by Sheriff Joe Rodak's deputies April 21 and charged with possession of gaming devices. Nine slot machines were confiscated by deputies in that raid.

Huff originally was scheduled to appear before Squire Herron April 28, after posting a $500 bond. The hearing was continued until May 5, then May 12 at the request of Miss Callie Tsapis, Weirton Attorney, to allow more time to prepare Huff's defense.

This morning, Herron continued the hearing until May 19, on the basis of an agreement between the prosecuting attorney and Miss Tsapis.

Two witnesses in the case are ill and are unavailable at present, Herron said.

Rendezvous Set Tonight

Unmanned Soviet Craft Heads For Moon Landing

MOSCOW (AP) — The unmanned Soviet spaceship Lunik 5 hurtled toward a rendezvous with the moon tonight. The Russians hoped it would land gently and start sending back information needed for a manned flight to the moon.

The 3,250-pound spacecraft, launched Sunday from an orbiting earth satellite, was expected to come down gently near the moon's south pole on a plain known as the Sea of Clouds.

The official news agency Tass said that at 2 a.m. Moscow time — 6 p.m. EST Tuesday — Lunik 5 was 29,000 miles from the moon and 206,250 miles from the earth. Tass said it would reach the moon about 10:15 p.m. — 2:15 p.m. EST.

The United States does not plan to soft-land an instrument package on the moon until 1966.

If Lunik 5 succeeds in letting itself down gently on the moon's surface, it will take two big steps forward in the space race:

1. It can sit on the surface and radio back to earth data of a kind that it has not been possible to obtain from photographs made by craft that crashed into the moon.

2. It will show whether a man can land on the moon with presently available types of space systems.

Tass said that "elements of the system of soft landing on the moon are being tried out for the first time on the automatic station Lunik 5."

An earlier version of this announcement said only that the spacecraft carried equipment for a soft landing.

Equipment Authorized To Create New Playlot

The new City Park Commission, meeting Tuesday night at City Hall, authorized Keith Dunlevy of the Recreation Council to purchase $750 in equipment for a new playground to be established in the 2nd St. area.

The equipment is scheduled to be delivered May 24 and the lot will be established by June 1 if a site has been located in the meantime, the commission said.

John Parsons, chairman, said the commission is "desperate" for a site for the new playlot. So far it has considered a section of the city - owned property on E. 2nd St. that now is used in part by the street department; another city-owned tract on the south side of 3rd St. at Market St., and a privately - owned vacant lot at 2nd and Market Sts.

Part of the municipally-owned lot on E. 2nd St. east of Washington St. is occupied by street department cinder piles, buildings, oil tanks and other equipment and it also is used for truck parking.

Council has promised its cooperation in establishing the lot and the Recreation Council will furnish supervision.

The commission will hold a special meeting May 25 at City Hall to discuss the playground establishment again. Any person interested in seeing the project become a reality should attend, Parsons said.

The commission received a complaint from Dixonville residents on the closing of two of the three exits at the lower end of Thompson Park. The commission referred the request to the Board of Thompson Park Commissioners.

A protest also was received from Klondyke area residents, alleging that the Klondyke playground is used as late as 12:30 or 1 a. m. by adults, creating noise that complainants said is disturbing. The commission said since the persons involved are adults it has no jurisdiction and the complaints should be referred to the police department in the future.

The commission said it still is seeking a site to establish a new baseball field. The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday, June 8.

The Rev. H. Gene Toot, co-pastor of the Trinity Church here, presided at the evening session, which featured a report by the stewardship committee for 1965-66.

Robert Burns of Kent, an area councilor serving in the Steubenville, Mahoning and Cleveland Presbyteries. The funds raised will be for projects both in the United States and at overseas missions. Supreme Court Hampers Justice

There's no doubt about it.

The United States Supreme Court is not only breaking long-respected precedent, but in fact is establishing new law.

And in the specific area with which this editorial is concerned, its decisions have had a disturbing influence on law enforcement agencies, prosecutors and courts at the local and state levels.

The individual for whom the nation's highest court is showing such meticulous concern is the defendant in a criminal case.

In fact, it is beginning to appear that the right of a law-abiding citizen to security in his own home is deserving of less judicial attention than the right of a defendant in criminal court.

And this at a time when crime in full spectrum is running rampant in the country, with all too inadequate provisions to cope with it.

BUT THE REAL crux of the problem, as at least some prosecutors so view it, is not a tightening of the rules of evidence or even a restriction of comment about the failure of a defendant to take the witness stand in a way to imply guilt.

The No. 1 blockbuster is the newly-established fact that the administration of criminal justice is no longer reserved to the states.

Under U.S. Supreme Court edict, a defendant in a criminal case who has been convicted in a state court can appeal directly to a federal court on habeas corpus proceedings.

And this despite the fact that all remedies in state courts have not been exhausted.

Federal courts no longer respect facts as established in state courts. In fact, fundamental changes have been made in basic court procedure.

A STATE COURT can be overruled by federal judges on the admissibility of evidence, even though there has been no challenge by defense counsel or no ruling by a judge to which error can be attributed.

But the most disturbing feature of federal intrusion into local affairs is the impact of retroactivity.

If the administration of justice in state courts over the years is now found to be faulty, prison doors will open to thousands of convicts, who apparently aren't to be judged on their guilt but upon the processes by which they were found guilty.

WE NOW PLEAD concern for the people and the police whose responsibility it is to protect them. They have rights, too.

But their rights have come under such rigid scrutiny that the question too often raises of who is wrong — the police and the prosecutor, or the defendant.

No fair person wants to see an innocent man convicted.

But we would wish there were fewer barriers to the proper administration of justice to the guilty.

Head Of The Hot Potato Dept.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., appointed to head the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, tells an interviewer he doesn't see any connection between his new job and a possible 1967 race for governor of New York.

If any connection did exist, it would be negative. Young Mr. Roosevelt will be holding a hot potato starting July 2 when the employment section of the 1964 Civil Rights Act goes into effect.

The section bars discrimination by employers or unions with 100 or more employes or members. The number is to be reduced year by year until it reaches 25 employes or members. It authorizes the U.S. attorney general to sue if he finds a pattern or practice of resistance.

In states having fair employment laws, complaints cannot be filed with the federal commission for 60 days, to allow remedial state action.

But it is certain the federal commission will have its hands full of hot potatoes and that the head of the commission will become one of the most quoted and most controversial figures in public life.

Some speculation about his forthcoming troubles zeroes in on a little-noticed provision of the employment section which bars discrimination based on sex, unless sex is a bona fide qualification, as it would be in hiring musicians for an all-girl orchestra, or singers for male chorus.

That provision alone could burn young Mr. Roosevelt's hands to a crisp if he ever handled it with his gloves off.

Military Draft Here To Stay

In what sounds like an interim report to spur enlistments, Pentagon sources have hinted that military drafting is here to stay.

The reason this sounds like an interim report is that a comprehensive review of the draft ordered by President Johnson a year ago last April has not been finished. It is helpful more than a year later to recall what he wanted the review to accomplish.

He said the principle of the draft may have been lost sight of.

The principle was equal sharing of the obligations and privileges of services.

The President told the reviewers to study alternatives to the existing system, paying attention to the possibility that manpower requirements might be met on an entirely voluntary basis in the next 10 years.

Inevitably, this caused wishful thinkers to speculate about the end of the draft as if its termination already had been decided. Nothing had been decided. That was the reason a review was needed—to collect evidence on which to base a decision. President Johnson was looking ahead as far as a decade.

But the Pentagon cannot take the long view.

Voluntary enlistments had fallen off because potential draftees were hoping the draft might end; they were under no pressure to enlist, they thought. The Pentagon now has reapplied pressure.

Enlist or be drafted will be the rule for years to come, it hints.

It Would Be Worth The Effort

Mother's Day is over.

It will be another year before an organized fuss is made over motherhood.

In the meantime, how many of us might be tempted to give Mother's Day a one-two punch, for a change?

It would work like this:

Just at the moment when mothers are resigned to another year of being taken for granted, why not surprise them with an unscheduled burst of adulation and consideration?

Let's say that some Wednesday morning, perhaps this Wednesday morning, the little brood told Mom what a great person she is and demonstrate its high regard by serving her breakfast in bed.

Or let's say that just any morning the whole family might make a special point of patting her on the back, kissing her on the cheek, squeezing her dishpan hands and letting her know that she is deeply appreciated.

Not that some people don't do this routinely. Some do — but not too many.

It would cause a lot of mothers to go into a state of shock if it happened, but when they came out of it their doubts about whether they're appreciated would be gone forever.

That would make the gesture worth the effort.

It's why Mother's Day was started in the first place.

I am not disturbed by reports about strained relations between President Johnson and the press. Editors and presidents have incompatible aims. All presidents want to be editors and most editors want to run the country. So they differ.

Again it is commencement time and again it is being hammered home that only the educated can get jobs. Therefore, everybody must become educated. But what do we do about people who can't be educated. What do we do, huh, what do we do?

Fowler's "Dictionary of Modern English Usage" has been revised, and once more fuel will be heaped on the controversy between traditionalists and modernists. Eventually, the modernists must always win. Otherwise, there would be no need to revise Fowler's.

There must be times when ministers feel like the darling daughter who could a-swimming go but not go near the water. Ministers can a-preaching go but must be careful about practicing lest they offend dissidents in their congregations.

One handy aspect of sports integration is the fact baseball players are in the sun so much everybody is the same color and football players' faces are invisible inside those outsized plastic helmets.

The way to whoop up theatrical offering used to be to have it banned in Boston. Nowadays, the way to whoop up a lecturer is to have him banned from a college campus.

I cannot remember when fruit crops have not been wiped out by the violence of the climate but I cannot remember a year in which there was a widespread shortage of fruit. I assume this is because the country is so large that growers may be skunked one place but growers elsewhere are able to move their crops into scarcity areas.

This is a bumper year for lawn grass. Thanks to shortsightedness, I now am mowing so much lawn that in Maytime I never finish. The first section is ready to mow again when the other sections have been finished.

I wonder what would happen if a wag spent an idle hour going back and forth over one of those traffic counters they string across highways — just backing up and moving forward again. Or can the counters cope with this possibility?

Siren Call!

'The Big Mules Of Birmingham'

By Charles Morgan Jr.

"The Big Mules of Birmingham," James E. Folsom called them in Alabama's 1946 gubernatorial campaign.

The Big Mules, the "power elite" composed of the city's business and industrial leaders, were no match for "Big Jim" that year. Folsom entered office riding on a bale of populism and high hopes. George C. Wallace, an obscure young lawyer from Alabama's Black Belt, climbed aboard. He rapidly became a Folsom leader in the legislature.

Physically, Folsom and Wallace made a sort of Mutt-and-Jeff political team. But they worked together to break the power of Birmingham's industrial complex. For the fabric of Birmingham was not knit of cotton, but of steel and power, mining and railroads.

If Birmingham's big mules never fully recovered from Folsom's political assault, neither did "Big Jim." He and Wallace, by then Folsom's trusted lieutenant, learned a lesson. An Alabama politician can beat the "Big Mules" once, maybe twice, but the price of victory is high. It's a long walk for campaign funds, a favorable press and respectability.

RESPECTABILITY is an important word in Alabama. They call it "image" in Birmingham.

Birmingham has few traditions. Like the newly-rich, it created some.

It clings to a Southern way of life it never knew. But the cost of Southern tradition has gone up.

Years of riots at bus stations, racial bombings and killings and demonstrations, have hardened its leaders. But though hardened, they still yearn for respectability. That, too, has its price.

In 1907, the United States Steel Corp. acquired control of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Co., Birmingham's largest industry. Soon the control of the Alabama Power Co., like the city's young men a half-century later, went north. Freight-rate differentials locked the city into its role as a stepchild of Pittsburgh, a forgotten child of New York.

In its early rough and bawdy years, the South's industrial center grew rapidly. Coal, iron and limestone were found within a 15-mile radius. It became a junction point for railroads.

Poor whites and Negroes from across the South flocked there to find a job or a fortune. Few found both, but Birmingham termed itself the "Magic City." Its magic of 1900 was tarnished. For with new workers, came a drive for union labor and a legacy of violence. The "Big Mules" met strikers with strikebreakers, lynchings and convict labor. And they adopted the political creed of the day — strident racism.

BY 1901, the Big Mules had allied themselves with conservative agricultural interests of Alabama's Black Belt counties. Selma was queen of the cotton country. Birmingham and its steel became the state's Crown Prince. The alliance worked. The Black Belt and the "Big Mules" controlled Alabama for 60 years.

Unlike Atlanta, Birmingham was unable to diversify its industry. And its shopkeepers and commercial interests, hard-pressed by competition with company stores, grew more slowly than in other Southern cities. Its manufacturing showed a corresponding slower growth rate.

Automation, competition and new sources of raw material attacked its railroads, mines and mills. Thus, employment declined 10 per cent in the five years following 1957. In the midst of this, Birmingham met recurring racial crises with little wisdom.

Because the city had not developed as a commercial center, its most powerful men were not its merchants. Because it dealt in heavy industrial goods, racial troubles did not affect the pocketbooks of its leading citizens. Civil rights advocates don't buy steel. And thus far, there have been no sit-ins at open hearths.

Thus, direct action weapons of the civil rights movement missed Birmingham's biggest targets.

BUT REAPPORTIONMENT of the legislature and the President's voter registration bill do threaten the old alliance of Birmingham's "Big Mules" and the politicians of the Black Belt.

Birmingham's local business leaders who have amassed fortunes from the steel city, are another factor. A home - grown third generation is desperate for new industry. George Wallace offered them both industrial growth and the luxury of the status quo.

They supported him when he "stood up for Alabama" at a schoolhouse door and on his forays into the Northern states. But support for Wallace may become too expensive. When it does, he'll be retired like an antique automobile, loved but garaged as too costly.

Recently 22 Alabama business groups asked Wallace to reconsider his position. In advertisements in the state's daily papers and selected national journals, they took a veiled and feeble step — but a step it was—urging "leaders of both races to improve avenues of communication and understanding."

WALLACE has read their message. He heard it before he reluctantly met with Negro leaders after the Selma - Montgomery march. He heard it before he visited the bombed-out home of Birmingham Negro accountant T. L. Crowell. He hears it in messages from Northern financial circles and in the calls of civil rights leaders for boycotts. But Wallace also heard the crowd's roar when he called for "segregation today, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever."

If Wallace begins to temper his words and his actions on the racial front, then the big mules will have received a message too. For Wallace is aiming for the United States Senate seat of John J. Sparkman in 1966. He'll need a lot of mules, big mules, to pull him there.

American Policy

By David Lawrence

U.S. Stand Seen Preventing Third World War

The American people may as well resign themselves to the prospect that both in Viet Nam and in the Dominican Republic the conflicts may be long-drawn out. Paradoxical as it may seem, the American policy in each instance can do more to avert the disaster of a third world war than all the conferences and discussions of peace objectives in the last decade have accomplished.

David Lawrence

What the United States is doing in Southeast Asia and in the Caribbean is both significant and constructive. Pacifists and other citizens who would like to make sure that a holocaust is avoided might well take a hard look at the facts of international behavior which led a supposedly civilized society into two world wars, causing the death of millions of human beings and leaving on the surviving peoples scars that have not been removed by the passage of time.

In Viet Nam and in the Dominican Republic, the issue today is the same. Will an altruistic and humanitarian nation, ready to supply billions of dollars for relief and development or armed forces to repel aggression, be thwarted and frustrated by captious critics or misguided appeasers inside and outside the United Sates?

THE FALLACY they do not perceive is that, once the tyranny of Communist imperialism takes over—particularly in the Caribbean, where Cuba stands as a realistic example of the tragedy that can ensue elsewhere in Latin America—the struggle against a truly dangerous intervention in the affairs of weaker republics of this hemisphere cannot be abandoned by the United States.

The cause is as much one of self-preservation of the people of this country against threats from potential missile bases in nearby islands as it is the avoidance of a world war which could involve also the peoples of every other continent.

Much of the criticism of the policy of the United States government in Santo Domingo is based on superficial thinking of what possible avail, for instance, is it to argue that the Communists who infiltrated the Dominican Republic and helped to foment revolution have not yet been convicted in the court of public opinion and that sufficient proof of their insidious deviltry has not been produced?

Also, of what real consequence is the argument that what the United States has done by intervening in Santo Domingo will hurt us with the other Latin-American nations? This is an age-worn contention.

THE TRUTH is the peoples of the Central and South American countries want freedom and rarely get it. They seek a better standard of living for their growing populations, but they will never achieve it through Communism.

Their own salvation lies in such projects as the Alliance for Progress and the constant willingness of the United States to step in with its military forces to keep the Communist enemy from committing the peoples of this hemisphere to perennial slavery and bondage.

Despite the revived criticisms of the armed interventions by the United States in past years, the fact remains that this country has not annexed a single foot of territory of another country in this hemisphere.

It has, indeed, made many sacrifices and even fought a major war, more than a half-century ago, to liberate Cuba from oppression by a European power.

The American record of intervention has been criticized as "gunboat diplomacy," but not a single instance can be cited to show that the American purpose was tainted. Wherever a country has been temporarily occupied not only to protect American lives but to save the native peoples themselves from the greater dangers that faced them, the end result has been a withdrawal of the military contingents when peaceful conditions have been achieved.

IN NOT ALL the instances have the villains who threatened these countries come from the outside, as there have been groups and factions which have selfishly exploited the peasant population and obstructed the reforms that could have improved the standard of living and the economic welfare of the country affected.

Today in Santo Domingo the main source of trouble will not be eradicated unless the forces of the United States remain in the Dominican Republic—either alone or with the military units of the Organization of American States—long enough to make certain that an established government will deal effectively with efforts of the Communists to carry on subversive meaesures.

The Washington government has a grave problem on its hands and deserves the support of members of Congress of both parties.

The situation in the Dominican Republic concerns not just that tiny island but the future of all other countries in the Caribbean. If abandoned, Latin America can crumble just as southeast Asia can disintegrate, and this could lead to a third world war.

Letter To The Editor

I, Frank C. Wilson, as a member of the Board of County Commissioners, want to take this opportunity to sincerely thank the people of this county for voting so overwhelmingly for the passage of the two levies at the primaries: the County Home and Retarded Children's levy. These two levies are for an excellent cause and the people responded magnificently.

As a commissioner, I am dedicated to the task of serving all the people of the county, but my immediate concern is to do what is best for the residents of the County Home.

Their welfare and material needs should not become a matter of political expediency for various political clubs to endeavor to make political capital for themselves.

Invariably, when one of these clubs holds a meeting the topic for discussion, as publicized beforehand, is the County Home.

These people cannot know problems that do arise at the Home, but I as commissioner, am constantly faced with them and think I am better able to cope with them than political clubs that just talk about them.

I have been in office for almost five years, and I have seen four pressure groups march on the commissioners' office—one group had 98 persons in it, the second 57, the third 27, and during the present term the goup that visited the office had 7 persons, and every group had the County Home as their topic for discussion.

I was voted in office to serve everyone, not just a few political factions. I am trying daily to do what I think best for the residents of the County Home, and I will not be swerved from my purpose.

I am not disturbed by reports about strained relations between President Johnson and the press. Editors and presidents have incompatible aims. All presidents want to be editors and most editors want to run the country. So they differ.

Again it is commencement time and again it is being hammered home that only the educated can get jobs. Therefore, everybody must become educated. But what do we do about people who can't be educated. What do we do, huh, what do we do?

Fowler's "Dictionary of Modern English Usage" has been revised, and once more fuel will be heaped on the controversy between traditionalists and modernists. Eventually, the modernists must always win. Otherwise, there would be no need to revise Fowler's.

There must be times when ministers feel like the darling daughter who could a-swimming go but not go near the water. Ministers can a-preaching go but must be careful about practicing lest they offend dissidents in their congregations.

One handy aspect of sports integration is the fact baseball players are in the sun so much everybody is the same color and football players' faces are invisible inside those outsized plastic helmets.

The way to whoop up theatrical offering used to be to have it banned in Boston. Nowadays, the way to whoop up a lecturer is to have him banned from a college campus.

I cannot remember when fruit crops have not been wiped out by the violence of the climate but I cannot remember a year in which there was a widespread shortage of fruit. I assume this is because the country is so large that growers may be skunked one place but growers elsewhere are able to move their crops into scarcity areas.

This is a bumper year for lawn grass. Thanks to shortsightedness, I now am mowing so much lawn that in Maytime I never finish. The first section is ready to mow again when the other sections have been finished.

I wonder what would happen if a wag spent an idle hour going back and forth over one of those traffic counters they string across highways — just backing up and moving forward again. Or can the counters cope with this possibility?

Siren Call!

'The Big Mules Of Birmingham'

By Charles Morgan Jr.

"The Big Mules of Birmingham," James E. Folsom called them in Alabama's 1946 gubernatorial campaign.

The Big Mules, the "power elite" composed of the city's business and industrial leaders, were no match for "Big Jim" that year. Folsom entered office riding on a bale of populism and high hopes. George C. Wallace, an obscure young lawyer from Alabama's Black Belt, climbed aboard. He rapidly became a Folsom leader in the legislature.

Physically, Folsom and Wallace made a sort of Mutt-and-Jeff political team. But they worked together to break the power of Birmingham's industrial complex. For the fabric of Birmingham was not knit of cotton, but of steel and power, mining and railroads.

If Birmingham's big mules never fully recovered from Folsom's political assault, neither did "Big Jim." He and Wallace, by then Folsom's trusted lieutenant, learned a lesson. An Alabama politician can beat the "Big Mules" once, maybe twice, but the price of victory is high. It's a long walk for campaign funds, a favorable press and respectability.

RESPECTABILITY is an important word in Alabama. They call it "image" in Birmingham.

Birmingham has few traditions. Like the newly-rich, it created some.

It clings to a Southern way of life it never knew. But the cost of Southern tradition has gone up.

Years of riots at bus stations, racial bombings and killings and demonstrations, have hardened its leaders. But though hardened, they still yearn for respectability. That, too, has its price.

In 1907, the United States Steel Corp. acquired control of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Co., Birmingham's largest industry. Soon the control of the Alabama Power Co., like the city's young men a half-century later, went north. Freight-rate differentials locked the city into its role as a stepchild of Pittsburgh, a forgotten child of New York.

In its early rough and bawdy years, the South's industrial center grew rapidly. Coal, iron and limestone were found within a 15-mile radius. It became a junction point for railroads.

Poor whites and Negroes from across the South flocked there to find a job or a fortune. Few found both, but Birmingham termed itself the "Magic City." Its magic of 1900 was tarnished. For with new workers, came a drive for union labor and a legacy of violence. The "Big Mules" met strikers with strike-breakers, lynchings and convict labor. And they adopted the political creed of the day — strident racism.

BY 1901, the Big Mules had allied themselves with conservative agricultural interests of Alabama's Black Belt counties. Selma was queen of the cotton country. Birmingham and its steel became the state's Crown Prince. The alliance worked. The Black Belt and the "Big Mules" controlled Alabama for 60 years.

Unlike Atlanta, Birmingham was unable to diversify its industry. And its shopkeepers and commercial interests, hard-pressed by competition with company stores, grew more slowly than in other Southern cities. Its manufacturing showed a corresponding slower growth rate.

Automation, competition and new sources of raw material attacked its railroads, mines and mills. Thus, employment declined 10 per cent in the five years following 1957. In the midst of this, Birmingham met recurring racial crises with little wisdom.

Because the city had not developed as a commercial center, its most powerful men were not its merchants. Because it dealt in heavy industrial goods, racial troubles did not affect the pocketbooks of its leading citizens. Civil rights advocates don't buy steel. And thus far, there have been no sit-ins at open hearths.

Thus, direct action weapons of the civil rights movement missed Birmingham's biggest targets.

BUT REAPPORTIONMENT of the legislature and the President's voter registration bill do threaten the old alliance of Birmingham's "Big Mules" and the politicians of the Black Belt.

Birmingham's local business leaders who have amassed fortunes from the steel city, are another factor. A home - grown third generation is desperate for new industry. George Wallace offered them both industrial growth and the luxury of the status quo.

They supported him when he "stood up for Alabama" at a schoolhouse door and on his forays into the Northern states. But support for Wallace may become too expensive. When it does, he'll be retired like an antique automobile, loved but garaged as too costly.

Recently 22 Alabama business groups asked Wallace to reconsider his position. In advertisements in the state's daily papers and selected national journals, they took a veiled and feeble step — but a step it was—urging "leaders of both races to improve avenues of communication and understanding."

WALLACE has read their message. He heard it before he reluctantly met with Negro leaders after the Selma - Montgomery march. He heard it before he visited the bombed-out home of Birmingham Negro accountant T. L. Crowell. He hears it in messages from Northern financial circles and in the calls of civil rights leaders for boycotts. But Wallace also heard the crowd's roar when he called for "segregation today, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever."

If Wallace begins to temper his words and his actions on the racial front, then the big mules will have received a message too. For Wallace is aiming for the United States Senate seat of John J. Sparkman in 1966. He'll need a lot of mules, big mules, to pull him there.

Today In History

Today is Wednesday, May 12, the 132nd day of 1965. There are 233 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1943, the battle of North Africa ended. The victory reopened the Mediterranean to Allied shipping and ended the threat from the south to Egypt and Gibraltar.

On this date

In 1775, American colonials captured Crown Point on Lake Champlain, N.Y.

In 1820, Florence Nightingale, the "Angel of Mercy" in the Crimea, was born. She fought public opinion to devote herself to nursing, and lived to see the profession rise to high prestige.

In 1892, a Confederate soldiers' home was opened at Nashville, Tenn., in "The Hermitage," which had been the home of President Andrew Jackson.

In 1938, the Japanese fleet captured the Chinese island of Amoy.

American Policy

By David Lawrence

U.S. Stand Seen Preventing Third World War

The American people may as well resign themselves to the prospect that both in Viet Nam and in the Dominican Republic the conflicts may be long-drawn out. Paradoxical as it may seem, the American policy in each instance can do more to avert the disaster of a third world war than all the conferences and discussions of peace objectives in the last decade have accomplished.

David Lawrence

What the United States is doing in Southeast Asia and in the Caribbean is both significant and constructive. Pacitists and other citizens who would like to make sure that a holocaust is avoided might well take a hard look at the facts of international behavior which led a supposedly civilized society into two world wars, causing the death of millions of human beings and leaving on the surviving peoples scars that have not been removed by the passage of time.

In Viet Nam and in the Dominican Republic, the issue today is the same. Will an altruistic and humanitarian nation, ready to supply billions of dollars for relief and development or armed forces to repel aggression, be thwarted and frustrated by captious critics or misguided appeasers inside and outside the United Sates?

THE FALLACY they do not perceive is that, once the tyranny of Communist imperialism takes over—particularly in the Caribbean, where Cuba stands as a realistic example of the tragedy that can ensue elsewhere in Latin America—the struggle against a truly dangerous intervention in the affairs of weaker republics of this hemisphere cannot be abandoned by the United States.

The cause is as much one of self-preservation of the people of this country against threats from potential missile bases in nearby islands as it is the avoidance of a world war which could involve also the peoples of every other continent.

Much of the criticism of the policy of the United States government in Santo Domingo is based on superficial thinking of what possible avail, for instance, is it to argue that the Communists who infiltrated the Dominican Republic and helped to foment revolution have not yet been convicted in the court of public opinion and that sufficient proof of their insidious deviltry has not been produced?

Also, of what real consequence is the argument that what the United States has done by intervening in Santo Domingo will hurt us with the other Latin-American nations? This is an age-worn contention.

THE TRUTH is the peoples of the Central and South American countries want freedom and rarely get it. They seek a better standard of living for their growing populations, but they will never achieve it through Communism.

Their own salvation lies in such projects as the Alliance for Progress and the constant willingness of the United States to step in with its military forces to keep the Communist enemy from committing the peoples of this hemisphere to perennial slavery and bondage.

Despite the revived criticisms of the armed interventions by the United States in past years, the fact remains that this country has not annexed a single foot of territory of another country in this hemisphere.

It has, indeed, made many sacrifices and even fought a major war, more than a half-century ago, to liberate Cuba from oppression by a European power.

The American record of intervention has been criticized as "gunboat diplomacy," but not a single instance can be cited to show that the American purpose was tainted. Wherever a country has been temporarily occupied not only to protect American lives but to save the native peoples themselves from the greater dangers that faced them, the end result has been a withdrawal of the military contingents when peaceful conditions have been achieved.

IN NOT ALL the instances have the villains who threatened these countries come from the outside, as there have been groups and factions which have selfishly exploited the peasant population and obstructed the reforms that could have improved the standard of living and the economic welfare of the country affected.

Today in Santo Domingo the main source of trouble will not be eradicated unless the forces of the United States remain in the Dominican Republic—either alone or with the military units of the Organization of American States—long enough to make certain that an established government will deal effectively with efforts of the Communists to carry on subversive meaesures.

The Washington government has a grave problem on its hands and deserves the support of members of Congress of both parties.

The situation in the Dominican Republic concerns not just that tiny island but the future of all other countries in the Caribbean. If abandoned, Latin America can crumble just as southeast Asia can disintegrate, and this could lead to a third world war.

Letter To The Editor

I, Frank C. Wilson, as a member of the Board of County Commissioners, want to take this opportunity to sincerely thank the people of this county for voting so overwhelmingly for the passage of the two levies at the primaries: the County Home and Retarded Children's levy. These two levies are for an excellent cause and the people responded magnificently.

As a commissioner, I am dedicated to the task of serving all the people of the county, but my immediate concern is to do what is best for the residents of the County Home.

Their welfare and material needs should not become a matter of political expediency for various political clubs to endeavor to make political capital for themselves.

Invariably, when one of these clubs holds a meeting the topic for discussion, as publicized beforehand, is the County Home.

These people cannot know problems that do arise at the Home, but I as commissioner, am constantly faced with them and think I am better able to cope with them than political clubs that just talk about them.

I have been in office for almost five years, and I have seen four pressure groups march on the commissioners' office—one group had 98 persons in it, the second 57, the third 27, and during the present term the goup that visited the office had 7 persons, and every group had the County Home as their topic for discussion.

I was voted in office to serve everyone, not just a few political factions. I am trying daily to do what I think best for the residents of the County Home, and I will not be swerved from my purpose.

Hull had been second vice president and in charge of the IBOP's west coast office in California before he defeated the late James M. Duffy for the top post.

When Hull retired because of failing sight, Wheatley automatically moved up from the first vice presidency. A short time later, he was named to the post officially in a vote of the trade.

Wheatley was returned to two-year terms in the presidency in 1957 and 1959. In 1961, he was elected to his present term. The tenure of the IBOP officials, meanwhile, had been extended from two years to four.

Opponents of the bill included Sen. Ross Pepple, R-Allen, who called it "just one more licensing bill that is going to increase costs to the public and give special privileges to a special group."

Senators voted 17-12 for passage, with 17 affirmative votes required.

Three measures were introduced during the busy sessions, including one to implement the $290 million bond issue approved by voters May 4.

Levy Studied By Southern Local Board

Whether or not to submit a proposed 2.5-mill levy for increasing school personnel pay has been taken under study by the Southern Local School District board of education.

The board, following a decision to maintain the current general salary schedule for the 1965-66 terms, is studying the proposed levy as a means of upgrading pay levels.

Action is expected to be considered at the June 14 meeting.

Also under study is a plan to consolidate the district's 106 eighth-graders at the Salineville School next year in order to improve the scholastic and athletic program.

Eighth-graders are now located at Wayne, Highlandtown, No. 16, Franklin and Salineville schools. Use of three additional rooms at Salineville would be required for the changeover, possibly converting present office and laboratory rooms into classrooms, Jack Baker, executive head, said.

A survey to determine the interest in a proposed resumption of a driver training course is to be undertaken. The board is considering offering the classroom part of the course during the regular term, with the driving training in the summer.

The board is also seeking a replacement for Alvin Hart, who has resigned as custodian at Franklin School.

May Lean Too Much

SIRACUSA, Sicily (AP)—Sicily has a leaning tower, too, but authorities here are unhappy about it. They say the old bell tower at Avola has begun to tip recently because of soil subsidence and is in danger of falling. Experts from the University of Catania have been asked to suggest means of stopping the slant.

plaint by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson that high-pressure sales campaigns by American arms manufacturers were shutting Britain out of the alliance's arms market. He warned that Britain might have to consider the effect on its reserves of hard currency.

This was taken as a threat to cut British forces in West Germany, which are assigned to NATO, unless the cost of their maintenance is eased by arms sale to West Germany.

The United States, Britain and France formally reaffirmed that they share with the Soviet Union the responsibility for a final all-German peace settlement. The decision had been announced Tuesday.

President Charles de Gaulle's government had wanted the declaration to reflect France's new line — that it was mainly for Europeans to work out a solution of the German problem. This would have excluded the Americans.

A sudden retreat by Couve de Murville Monday night opened the way to agreement to the relief of the whole Atlantic alliance.

Sixty pounds of sausage, 10 dozen eggs, two cases of pancake mix, six gallons of syrup and more have been ordered for the Kiwanis Club's sausage and pancake supper to be held Saturday night at Westgate School.

Mayor Merrill Hall, chairman of the event, said Kiwanis Club members have been organized into teams for ticket sales for the dinner to be served from 5 to 8 p. m.

Hall and Roy Cooper, co-chairman, said 25 pounds of bacon, four cases of grapefruit and tomato juices, 15 gallons of sherbet, eight pounds of coffee, 176 half - pints and six gallons of milk also have been ordered.

Some 600 attended the last pancake dinner of the club.

Tickets are available from members at The Review or at the door.

Goldwater

Goldwater, the 1964 GOP presidential nominee, to use his influence to help get the left-over campaign funds into the National Committee's currently lean treasury. Goldwater is understood to have agreed to help.

As outlined recently to the Congressional Campaign Committee headed by Rep. Bob Wilson of California, the conservative project would be financed with a $150,000 fund. In the programs, donations would be solicited to keep the series going.

Wilson's committee didn't think much of the idea of thus providing competition for its own congressional booster club's campaign to snag donations of $1,000 or more from big givers to finance support of Republican candidates for the House next year.

From what they learned of plans for the television programs, the House Committee members decided they didn't want their group identified with the image that thus might be created.

Bliss and Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, chairman of the senatorial campaign committee, felt the same way about it.

Denied the official sponsorship they sought, the conservatives were reported to have decided they will go ahead without it.

Neighbors Still Talk About Cookie Shower

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Three neighbors still talk about the night it rained cookies.

The "shower" was discovered by Stanley Morris who heard a noise that sounded like an explosion.

Stepping outside, Morris found his backyard and garage roof littered with bags of cookies. It was the same situation at the homes on either side of his.

There was no name or identifying clue on the bags.

Morris speculated the cookies may have been part of an air cargo, but a check of local bakers failed to turn up any who had made such shipments.

ber of barges and railroad boxcars. All the planes returned safely, the spokesman said.

About 5,000 Marines are now concentrated at Chu Lai. U.S. Seabees are to build an 8,000-foot jet airstrip there for two Marine attack squadrons that will give added air muscle in central Viet Nam.

Before the landing, one Marine on guard duty was wounded as the Viet Cong harassed the Marine positions. No Communist activity was reported during the landing.

The landing heightened speculation that the entire 3rd Marine Division on Okinawa eventually would be committed to the fight against the Viet Cong.

The Chu Lai Marines, now up to regimental strength, are expected to begin ranging the countryside in search of Communists.

The Marines at Da Nang, who now total about 9,000 men, have been assigned more than 100 square miles of additional territory west of the air base to be cleared of Viet Cong. Originally the Da Nang Marines were said to be assigned only defense positions around the air base.

To the south, the battle for the provincial capital of Song Be appeared over as an estimated 1,500 Communist guerrillas pulled back into the hills after a fierce daylong struggle that cost the lives of five American military advisers and 27 of the Vietnamese defenders.

The Viet Cong overran Song Be, 74 miles north of Saigon, early Tuesday and held it for seven hours until U.S. air strikes opened the way for Vietnamese troops to retake the town of 15,000 people. Thirteen Americans and 66 Vietnamese were wounded. Viet Cong losses were estimated at up to 170 killed.

The retreating Reds tried to ambush reinforcements dropped by helicopter at the Song Be airstrip, but the troops landed south of the field.

There was speculation that the attack on Song Be signaled the start of a major Viet Cong offensive during the monsoon rainy season, which severely hampers air operations.

Eight U.S. Navy planes made raids on North Viet Nam Tuesday night and reportedly did some damage to bridges and river vessels.

In Saigon, Deputy U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson had a narrow escape when a load of ammunition blew up in a movie studio adjoining his residence.

Johnson was standing in his yard about 45 feet from the center of the blast, which virtually demolished the envoy's garage and servants' quarters. No one was injured.

Police, searching the Alfa Studio which uses ammunition for props for war movies, found five unexploded mortar shells, five high-explosive grenades and a quantity of small-arms ammunition. About 40 employes of the firm were taken to the police station for questioning. Police officials felt the explosion was an accident.

In Washington, a U.S. Air Force squadron commander just back from Viet Nam told a news conference that as a result of steady pounding by U.S. fighter-bombers, Communist North Viet Nam is "running out of bridges."

Lt. Col. Robinson Risner of Tulsa, Okla., said "We know we haven't stopped" infiltration of men and materiel from the north, "but we have slowed them down."

The 24th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution has banned the poll tax in federal elections. Virginia, Texas, Alabama and Mississippi are the only states that still require poll-tax payments for voting in state and local elections.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach contends a flat legislative ban on the poll tax would be of doubtful constitutionality. Instead, the administration is backing a provision that would bring an early court ruling.

In any event, the Supreme Court already has announced it will review Virginia's poll tax next fall.

"I wish to emphasize particularly the quality of the installation our corporation will pledge. We have negotiated a contract with the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. for installation by Ohio Bell of the entire cable network throughout the two cities, along with the lines that will stretch from the cable to the homes."

"The highest quality equipment will be used throughout, along with the unexcelled know-how of Ohio Bell's skilled staff. Not only the original installation, but also all future maintenance will be done by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co."

SHAW ISSUED the following statement in further explanation of the corporation's plans:

"Community antenna television has been of interest to our company for a long time and we have given it considerable study.

"No one can be sure of what the future holds in this field. We know, of course, that the number of receivable clear channels can be expanded greatly and the quality of reception can be vastly improved in black and white, and especially in color.

"We feel strongly that East Liverpool and Wellsville are entitled to the best possible CATV organization, which would be of tremendous benefit to these communities. That is why we will have Ohio Bell Telephone provide the best equipment, the best service and the most knowledgeable personnel obtainable.

"If we are awarded the non-exclusive franchises we expect to seek, we will pledge our best efforts and those of our associates in bringing the East Liverpool-Wellsville areas a stable, responsible, high - quality operation."

Reserve infielder Phil Linz of the New York Yankees hit only eight major league home runs in 683 games but in the 1964 World Series he hit two of them in seven games.

Brown Rules Out 2nd Flip Of Coin In Palestine Tie

If a tied Republican race for an East Palestine Council nomination remains a tie after a recount Monday afternoon, there will be no second flip of a coin to break the deadlock and the man who won the original toss will remain the winner, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said today in a ruling issued for the County Election Board.

The contest concerns Richard D. Miller, the incumbent Second Ward councilman, and Halsey M. Allard, who tied with 77 votes each in a four - way race at the primaries May 4. Following procedure set up in state law, the Election Board broke the tie with a coin toss Friday and Miller was the winner.

Then Allard filed for a recount, which will be held Monday at 1 p. m. in the two precincts.

The question of a second tie arose after the recount application was filed. Brown told Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the Election Board, that if a tie is shown in the recount Miller will be declared the winner on the basis of the first coin toss. He explained that the recount would have confirmed the original result, which was decided in the coin toss Friday afternoon.

States ordered part of its peace mission back to the Dominican Republic from Washington in a new effort to find a settlement.

The OAS decided because of the Dominican crisis to postpone an inter-American conference of foreign ministers set for May 20 in Rio de Janeiro.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk arrived in London to explain American actions in the Dominican Republic and Viet Nam before a secret session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

At the United Nations, the United States rejected a Uruguayan proposal that the Securitilities in the Dominican Republic and give Secretary-General U Thant a watchdog role. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said such action would complicate OAS efforts to restore peace so that the Dominicans could choose their own government.

In San Juan, P.R., an anti-Communist Dominican editor said he could "add 150 names to the list of Communists in the Dominican Republic issued by Washington."

"Communists controlled the so-called constitutional movement from the first instant," said Antonio Bonilla Aybar Jr., 33, nephew of the Dominican ambassador to the United States.

In Peking, Mao Tze-tung called on the world to unite for a "tit-for-tat" struggle against the United States. The chief of the Chinese Communist party said in a statement broadcast over Peking radio that "U.S. military intervention in the Dominican Republic has aroused a new wave against U.S. imperialism among the people of Latin America and the world."

About 5,000 Marines are now concentrated at Chu Lai. U.S. Seabees are to build an 8,000-foot jet airstrip there for two Marine attack squadrons that will give added air muscle in central Viet Nam.

Before the landing, one Marine on guard duty was wounded as the Viet Cong harassed the Marine positions. No Communist activity was reported during the landing.

The landing heightened speculation that the entire 3rd Marine Division on Okinawa eventually would be committed to the fight against the Viet Cong.

The Chu Lai Marines, now up to regimental strength, are expected to begin ranging the countryside in search of Communists.

Clergy Plans Protest Over Viet Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — An interfaith group planned to march across the Potomac today and stand outside the Pentagon in a silent vigil disapproving the bombing of North Viet Nam and urging a peaceful settlement.

In advance of the march, leaders estimated as many as 500 to 1,000 clergymen and others from around the country might join in the demonstration.

After a morning meeting at a Washington Methodist church, the marchers were to set out on a walk of 3½ or 4 miles to the giant Defense Department headquarters in northern Virginia, just outside the capital.

They intended to line up and stand there all day, facing entrances where the top brass come and go.

The vigil was organized by a group calling itself the "Interreligious Committee on Viet Nam." A spokesman said it is composed of Protestants, Jewish and Roman Catholic clergymen and theologians.

A spokesman said a call went out two weeks ago to representatives of all faiths and color.

The call was issued by 24 leaders, including Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. King was not expected to attend the vigil.

The spokesman said the group is concerned mainly about the "human, moral — not the political — aspects" of the war in Viet Nam.

He said the demonstration was organized for four purposes, which he put this way:

"To express the sincere desire of the American people for a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam.

"To express concern at escalation of the war, especially U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam.

"To register our hopes that the United States will continually press for a settlement through unconditional discussions with all concerned parties.

"To support and encourage President Johnson in a program of international cooperation for human welfare and economic development in Southeast Asia."

The Pentagon has been the scene of a number of antiwar demonstrations over the years.

The rules require demonstrators to keep to an area some distance away from the building and forbids their impeding traffic or parking near the busy entrances.

Business Booming In Magical Illusions

LONDON (AP) — Jack Hughes says his export business is booming.

"New York wants 12 of my magic totem poles and three sawing through a woman," he added. "Belgium and Puerto Rico have ordered three sword suspensions. Kuala Lumpur wants a cage for vanishing six doves, and a big new market is opening up in Africa."

Hughes works 16 hours a day, making magical illusions.

"Magic has its fashions like everything else," he says. "The current trend in Britain is for dog magic."

"All I said was:
Show me a filter that delivers the taste and I'll eat my hat."

WASHINGTON (AP) — An interfaith group planned to march across the Potomac today and stand outside the Pentagon in a silent vigil disapproving the bombing of North Viet Nam and urging a peaceful settlement.

In advance of the march, leaders estimated as many as 500 to 1,000 clergymen and others from around the country might join in the demonstration.

After a morning meeting at a Washington Methodist church, the marchers were to set out on a walk of 3½ or 4 miles to the giant Defense Department headquarters in northern Virginia, just outside the capital.

They intended to line up and stand there all day, facing entrances where the top brass come and go.

The vigil was organized by a group calling itself the "Interreligious Committee on Viet Nam." A spokesman said it is composed of Protestants, Jewish and Roman Catholic clergymen and theologians.

A spokesman said a call went out two weeks ago to representatives of all faiths and color.

The call was issued by 24 leaders, including Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. King was not expected to attend the vigil.

The spokesman said the group is concerned mainly about the "human, moral — not the political — aspects" of the war in Viet Nam.

He said the demonstration was organized for four purposes, which he put this way:

"To express the sincere desire of the American people for a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam.

"To express concern at escalation of the war, especially U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam.

"To register our hopes that the United States will continually press for a settlement through unconditional discussions with all concerned parties.

"To support and encourage President Johnson in a program of international cooperation for human welfare and economic development in Southeast Asia."

The Pentagon has been the scene of a number of antiwar demonstrations over the years.

The rules require demonstrators to keep to an area some distance away from the building and forbids their impeding traffic or parking near the busy entrances.

Business Booming In Magical Illusions

LONDON (AP) — Jack Hughes says his export business is booming.

"New York wants 12 of my magic totem poles and three sawing through a woman," he added. "Belgium and Puerto Rico have ordered three sword suspensions. Kuala Lumpur wants a cage for vanishing six doves, and a big new market is opening up in Africa."

Hughes works 16 hours a day, making magical illusions.

"Magic has its fashions like everything else," he says. "The current trend in Britain is for dog magic."

"All I said was:
Show me a filter that delivers the taste and I'll eat my hat."

Giusti Posts 6th Straight In Astros' 2-1 Win Over LA

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dave Giusti, an off-season school teacher, has moved to the head of the class.

As a pitcher, that is.

Giusti recorded his sixth victory without a defeat as Houston edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1 Tuesday night and joined Bob Gibson as one of the winningest pitchers in the major leagues. A couple of hours earlier Gibson reached the same level, 6-0, in St. Louis' 4-3 triumph over the New York Mets.

The rise of the 25-year-old right-hander has been as meteoric as that of the Astros, who are in third place, two games behind first-place Los Angeles.

Prior to this season Giusti had managed a poor 2-3 record in 100 innings of hurling for Houston in 1962 and 1964.

While continuing his unbeaten streak, the former Syracuse University baseball and basketball star has compiled a 1.62 earned-run average, completed three of four starts and has given up less than one walk per game.

In other National League games, San Francisco blanked Chicago 3-0, Cincinnati bombed Philadelphia 9-1 and Pittsburgh nipped Milwaukee 4-3.

Giusti allowed the Dodgers only four hits while walking one and striking out six. Other than in the second inning when Los Angeles scored its lone run, the Dodgers had just two baserunners, Wes Parker on a third-inning single and John Kennedy on a walk in the fifth.

The Astro ace, who retired the last 14 Dodgers in succession, received all of the support he needed from Joe Gaines' two-run homer off Claude Osteen in the second inning.

The Mets got to Gibson for 10 hits, but the Cardinals beat them on an eighth-inning run. Dick Groat tripled and scored on Tim McCarver's ground out.

The Mets also lost All-Star second baseman Ron Hunt, who suffered a left shoulder separation in a baseline collision with St. Louis' Phil Gagliano in the fifth inning. Hunt probably will be out for the rest of the year.

Ron Herbel blanked the Cubs on four hits until the ninth when Billy Williams and Ron Santo singled with two out. Frank Linzy then came on and struck out Ernie Banks. Willie Mays rapped three San Francisco hits and drove in the first run in the third.

Pete Rose collected four hits, three of them key singles, for Cincinnati. Rose scored the first Reds' run in the fourth inning, singled across the lead run in the fifth and triggered a six-run uprising in the eighth. Gerry Arrigo turned in a sparkling relief job for the Reds in the final three innings.

Del Crandall's two-run single in the sixth inning plus Manny Mota's bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the eighth lifted the Pirates past the Braves. Milwaukee threatened in the ninth, scoring one run, but Ed Mathews ended it by hitting into his second double play of the game.

First Place Twins Beat Chance, Angels In 3-2 Verdict

Newcomers Help Yanks Over Bosox

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dean Chance had been taken for a sitting duck twice before this spring but it took a direct hit from Harmon Killebrew to clip the Angel's wings.

Minnesota's Killebrew rocketed a drive off Chance's shin Tuesday night in the ninth inning and Tony Oliva slid home with the run that gave the Twins a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles and snapped the Angel ace's winning streak at three games.

Killebrew's shot probably hurt less — and was more painful — than the line drives by Willie Mays and Vic Roznovsky that temporarily knocked Chance out of action during spring training.

But neither injury proved serious. Nor did it bruise Chance's won-lost record. The first-place Twins did. The loss left Dean at 3-1 and his earned-run average soared from 2.92 to 2.93.

Detroit came from six runs down to nip Washington 7-6 on Willie Horton's two-run single in the ninth; Baltimore edged Cleveland 3-2 on a run-scoring hit by relief pitcher Dick Hall in the 11th and the New York Yankees, led by Mickey Mantle and newcomers Doc Edwards and Ray Barker, topped Boston 5-3 in other American League action.

Kansas City and the Chicago White Sox were idle.

Chance gave up only two hits until the ninth but both were homers — by Jerry Kindall in the first and Oliva in the sixth. The Angels, meanwhile, had knocked out Minnesota starter Dick Stigman in the first inning on a leadoff homer by Jose Cardenal, a single by Willie Smith and two walks. Smith's two-out triple and an error by reliever Dave Boswell had produced another LA run in the fifth.

Kindall drew a walk leading off the Twins ninth and Cesar Tovar ran for him. Oliva ripped a double into the right-field corner but Tovar, who was to be optioned to Denver after the game, was thrown out at the plate.

Oliva, who reached third on the play, broke for home on Killebrew's shot off Chance's leg. Chance ran the ball down but Oliva slid across safely as the pitcher's hurried throw got away from catcher Bob Rodgers.

Horton's two-out single in the ninth scored Don Wert and Don Demeter, capping the Tigers' comeback after Willie Kirkland's three-run homer and run-scoring triple had helped the Senators build a 6-0 bulge.

Demeter's three-run double and Horton's solo homer keyed a five-run Detroit uprising in the seventh.

The victory went to relief specialist Larry Sherry, 2-0, who blanked Washington on one hit over the last two innings, Sherry has allowed only one run in 25 1-3 innings this season.

Baltimore, shut out on one hit by Ralph Terry for seven innings, knocked out the Cleveland right-hander in the eighth, tied the score in the ninth and won in the 11th on a single by Boog Powell, a hit batsman and Hall's ground single to right.

New York's Edwards, acquired recently from Kansas City, and Mantle homered while Baker, picked up Monday in a trade with Cleveland, broke into the lineup with two hits as the Yankees struck for four runs in the fourth inning and held off the Red Sox behind right-hander Mel Stottlemyre.

Bernie Allen Set To Join Twins Lineup

Bernie Allen, regular second baseman for the Minnesota Twins before an injury last season put him on the sidelines, was removed from the disabled list today and might see action in tonight's game with Los Angeles at Minneapolis.

Allen was slow to recover from surgery performed on his injured knee and did not see much action during the spring training period.

The Twins are currently in first place.

Boxer Still In Critical Condition

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Heavyweight boxer Lucien (Sonny) Banks remained in critical condition today at Presbyterian Hospital where he was operated on for a brain injury suffered in a fight.

Banks, 24, of Detroit, suffered a subdural hematoma Monday night when he was knocked out by Leotis Martin of Philadelphia in the ninth round of a 10-round feature bout.

A subdural hematoma is a blood clot between the third level of the skull and the brain. It is caused by a hemorrhage from a severe concussion.

Martin, 24, kayoed Banks with a short right to the temple. As Banks fell he hit his head on the floor of the ring.

Banks regained consciousness shortly after the fight, but then weakened and was taken to the hospital. He was operated on early Tuesday morning when his condition deteriorated.

Newell is the other team which has entered the league. Entry fee for the season is $100.

Boxer Still In Critical Condition

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Heavyweight boxer Lucien (Sonny) Banks remained in critical condition today at Presbyterian Hospital where he was operated on for a brain injury suffered in a fight.

Banks, 24, of Detroit, suffered a subdural hematoma Monday night when he was knocked out by Leotis Martin of Philadelphia in the ninth round of a 10-round feature bout.

A subdural hematoma is a blood clot between the third level of the skull and the brain. It is caused by a hemorrhage from a severe concussion.

Martin, 24, kayoed Banks with a short right to the temple. As Banks fell he hit his head on the floor of the ring.

Banks regained consciousness shortly after the fight, but then weakened and was taken to the hospital. He was operated on early Tuesday morning when his condition deteriorated.

Crampton Scores 3-Stroke Victory In Colonial Play

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A man must face up to his obligations to the game when the chips are down, Bruce Crampton mused as he sighted down the weary fairway toward hole No. 18 and "Crampton Lake" at Colonial Country Club.

Three years ago, Crampton lost the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament by sending his approach shot into that lake. That's why they named it for him.

"I thought about using an iron off the tee and just laying up to the hole so I wouldn't be taking any chances," said Crampton, a handsome 29-year-old Australian who has been a big winner on the American tour.

He could take a bogey and still bag the $100,000 Colonial crown because he had a three-stroke lead over George Knudson, a Canadian, going into the final hole.

"But then I thought this was not the way a champion should play; I'd say this was being chicken. I wanted to prove to myself that I could whip this hazard. So I played it a straightaway and won."

Crampton started the final round Tuesday a stroke behind Kundson. But he proceeded to shoot a four-under-par 66, using only 29 putts, and his 276 for 72 holes equaled the second best in the 20-year history of the tournament.

It was four-under-par for the route, and the final round was played over soggy fairways and water traps.

Knudson managed a par 70 for 279 and second place and observed, "It wasn't that I lost the tournament — Crampton won it."

Crampton took down $20,000 for his victory and brought his total money winnings to $25,670.17, $37,754.06 when unofficial cash is added, and jumped to third place among the money winners for the year.

The final round here was postponed for two days because of rain, and the players were permitted to improve the lie.

Beaver Local Nine Edges Toronto, 4-3

Beaver Local, behind the four hit pitching of lefty Frank Quetot, scored a 4-3 win over Toronto Tuesday on the Toronto diamond.

The Beavers jumped out to a 4-0 lead on a run in the fourth inning and three in the fifth but Toronto put all of its effort into one inning scoring three runs in the sixth.

Quetot struck out nine batters in going the distance. He was helped by a solid 12-hit attack from his teammates featured by Dick Dieringer's three hits while Larry Ensinger and Dennis Horger socked two safeties each.

Dennis Klembara was credited with a game saving catch from his position in leftfield.

Kunkel started for Toronto but was relieved by Leasure. The Beavers will meet Springfield today at Beaver Local.

8 Teams To Compete At Midland Tonight

Eight teams will compete tonight in the 13th running of the Midland Invitational track and field meet sponsored by American Legion Post 481 at Midland Stadium.

Competition will begin at 6 p. m. Teams entered include Beaver, Rochester, New Brighton, Freedom, Northwestern, Western Beaver, Riverside and Midland.

Medals will be given to all first place winners.

Debonair Ready, Trainer Reports

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lucky Debonair's trainer said, "He is fit now. There's just a question of keeping him that way until Saturday," when the 3-year-old colt tries to staple the Preakness to his Kentucky Derby laurels.

Frank Catrone's report could have been echoed Wednesday by the trainers of the eight or nine other colts expected for the Maryland fixture in the Triple Crown of racing.

The last tune-ups on the Pimlico track were held by Dapper Dan and Native Charger.

From now until they single-file to the post and break for 1 3-16 miles, gallops and windsprints will maintain the tone of this select group of thoroughbreds.

While waiting, Catrone disavowed any thinking about strategy.

"That's up to Willie Shoemaker," he insisted. "He's an old pro, has ridden this horse five times and knows what he can do.

"Besides, racing is 90 per cent luck."

Shoemaker would agree with that. Although one of the nation's premier jockeys for years, this will be the first time he will be riding the Derby winner in the Preakness and thus have a chance at the Triple Crown.

Shoemaker guided Derby winners Swaps in 1955 and Tomy Lee in 1959, but neither came on to the Preakness. Shoemaker has had five other Preakness starters, three of them favorites, but won only on Candy Spots in 1963.

One reason Catrone said he doesn't concern himself with planning a race for Lucky Debonair is because "this horse can run in any position, up front or from behind."

Isador Bieber's Flag Raiser is expected to set the early Preakness Pace. He did it for a mile in the Derby with Lucy Debonair sticking close before Shoemaker pulled out in front entering the last quarter-mile.

The laggards are Ogden Phipps' Dapper Dan and Mrs. Ben Cohen's Hail to All. Dapper Dan was the biggest surprise at the Derby finish, zooming from last to second by a neck.

Pimlico officials have been promised decisions today on whether to count upon Raymond Guest's Tom Rolfe and Patrice Jacobs' Turn to Reason for the 90th running of their $150,000-added classic.

The official entries at $1,000 apiece are to be made Thursday and it will cost those starting another $1,000.

Teachers' Par 3 Golf Tournament Set On Thursday

Twenty golfers are entered in the first annual Columbiana County Teachers Par 3 golf tournament set to begin at 3 p. m. Thursday, at the Beaver Creek golf course, Route 7, near Beaver Local High School.

Richard Hawkins, Fairfield School, is the pre-tourney favorite. Hawkins holds the course record for nine holes with a 24.

Tentatively, several cash prizes and three trophies will be awarded to the winner and the runners-up.

All Columbiana County school employees and their families are eligible to enter. Entry fees of $3 per player may be paid at the course at the time of the tournament.

Birmingham, Ala., is the South's heavy industry center.

Ron Hunt Out For Season

Mets Lose Star But Buy Hiller In Midnight Deal

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Everything seems to happen to the New York Mets. No sooner had they cut down to the 25-player limit in the major leagues, than their All-Star second baseman, Ron Hunt, is hurt and they make a midnight purchase of Chuck Hiller from San Francisco to fill the gap.

It happened like this. Hunt collided with a St. Louis Cardinal baserunner in the fifth inning of the game Tuesday night at Shea Stadium. He suffered a separation in his left shoulder that probably will keep him out for the season.

The Mets put Hunt on the disabled list, cutting the roster below the 25-player limit which is mandatory for all clubs in the National and American leagues until Sept. 1.

Earlier, they had sold pitcher Carl Willey to Buffalo of the International League and made Yogi Berra a coach only by taking him off the active list.

Met officials promptly got on the phone and landed Hiller from the Giants in a straight cash transaction early today. Hiller gained fame with his grand-slam homer in the 1962 World Series against the New York Yankees.

The Mets thus supplied the only excitement of the night-before the cutdown midnight deadline.

Most of the other clubs optioned rookies, although the Pittsburgh Pirates got down by putting veteran relief pitcher Roy Face on the disabled list. Face suffered a torn cartilage in his right knee while running in the outfield several days ago.

Aches And Pains Cause Yogi To Quit As Player

NEW YORK (AP) — Yogi Berra is 40 years old today and he feels every one of those years.

He feels them in his back, in his legs, in his shoulders. He feels them when he stoops behind the plate. He feels them when he tries to hit a fast ball.

That's why Yogi Berra decided to retire as an active player.

Yogi made the decision Tuesday night immediately after the New York Mets, with whom he will remain as a coach, dropped a 4-3 heart-breaker to the St. Louis Cardinals.

"This is it," he told newsmen. "I'm through as a player forever. I can't do it no more. It's tough to play even once a week. That year's layoff did it.

"All I said was:
Show me a filter that delivers the taste and I'll eat my hat."

Lewiston Citizens Think Fight Is Greatest Thing

By LARRY ELDRIDGE

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) —A few think it's sad or preposterously funny, but most local residents feel that holding the next heavyweight championship fight in a schoolboy hockey arena here will be the greatest thing that ever happened to this central Maine textile manufacturing town.

Amazement and elation are the most common reactions to the transplanting of the May 25 Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston clambake from the Boston Garden to the Central Maine Youth Center.

The dissenting view ranges from amusement to the thought that Lewiston only took what no one else would have.

A large majority of Lewiston's 41,000 citizens are French-Canadian in origin. They've always taken their sports seriously — with natural emphasis on hockey. But it's a good fight town too, and through the years champions like Joe Louis, Sugar Ray Robinson and Jersey Joe Walcott have fought here in non-title bouts.

Walk along the main streets and the merchants and customers seem an exceptionally friendly and voluble lot. Almost all are bilingual, and will talk readily in either English or French.

Ask them what they think of playing host as champion Clay and ex-titleholder Liston put on their controversial rematch, which was pulled out of Boston last week during a legal hassle, and they become exuberant.

"Greatest thing that ever happened here — really going to put Lewiston and the whole state on the map," said a hardware store worker echoing the general consensus.

But a college professor hit another note, calling it "pathetic to be picking up the bedraggled, ragged end of a discredited sport." And others talked of the "last resort" aspect, and the "bad taste" left by the thought of taking a bout which so many other cities had refused.

Youthful Mayor Robert Couturier said he was still happy the fight would be in Lewiston, but something less than enchanted with the picture of his city being given to newspaper readers across the country.

The mayor said many out-of-state writers, in their efforts to play up the angle of a big fight moving to a small town, have gone overboard to make it appear that Lewiston, Maine's second largest city, is in the midst of a trackless wilderness.

Yesterday's Stars

PITCHING — Dave Giusti, Houston, gained his sixth victory against no defeats with a four-hitter in Houston's 2-1 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

BATTING — Pete Rose, Cincinnati, collected three key singles and a double, scoring two runs and driving in one, as Cincinnati walloped Philadelphia 9-1.

Bret Hanover Choice In Cane Pace Tonight

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Bret Hanover, harness racing's 1964 Horse of the Year and unbeaten in his 25 career races, goes after the $125,236 Cane Pace at Yonkers Raceway tonight.

And the 3-year-old colt is a prohibitive 1-5 favorite to win this first leg of pacing's triple crown.

Driven by veteran Frank Ervin, Bret Hanover goes into the mile race owned by Richard Downing of Shaker Heights, Ohio. There are reports, however, that the sale of the bay colt by Adios out of Brenna Hanover for more than $850,000 may be announced after the race.

Jury Returns Guilty Action For Burglary

LISBON — Carl Lee Hawk Jr. of Wellsville has been found guilty by a Common Pleas Court jury on a charge of burglary.

The verdict was returned Tuesday afternoon after a deliberation of an hour and 10 minutes.

The charge involved the burglarizing of Cooper's American Oil Co. station on E. 3rd St. in East Liverpool on Feb. 19.

Hawk and William K. Hunt, also of East Liverpool both were indicted after being found in the station by East Liverpool police and bound over to grand jury.

Hunt pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to 1 to 20 years at Ohio State Penitentiary, but was returned to testify for Hawk, who had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Judge Raymond S. Buzzard delayed sentencing pending any motion for a new trial. Hawk also was indicted by the grand jury for the $90 armed robbery of Robert Freeman at Betty's Store in Wellsville on Feb. 19. A hearing on that charge is expected to begin next week.

Lobby Plans New Attempt To Win Sales Tax Boost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The powerful school lobby, defeated in its plan to boost the state sales tax one cent on the dollar, regrouped its forces today with indications it will try to take its program to the voters next fall.

The school group received a hard body blow Tuesday when House Taxation Committee rejected its proposal to raise the sales tax to add $116 million yearly for public education in the state.

More than 600 superintendents, meetimg here on an emergency basis, reaffirmed their support of the Ohio Council for Education's program.

The OCE, apparently expecting a defeat in the legislature, says it currently has 6,973 petitions in circulation to put the Education Council's PEP (Program for Educational Progress) on the November ballot.

The superintendents also adopted a resolution opposing a proposal backed by the Rhodes Administration for revising the state's school foundation program.

Rotarians Hear Traylor

Change In Attitude Urged By Minister During Talk

Humorous stories from both modern life and the Bible were used by the Rev. E. C. Traylor, minister of the First Church of Christ, as he discussed "Enough Is Enough" at the noon luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday at the Travelers Hotel.

Commenting on the wants and desires of people, he said, "Most people want more than they have, yet don't use what they've got."

A comparative newcomer to the community, Rev. Traylor said he liked East Liverpool very much, but, "if there was one thing he could change, it would be the attitude of the people here."

He said too many refer to East Liverpool as "this d— town," yet, he said, "there is enough potential in the East Liverpool area that, if cultivated, it could become one of the greatest areas in the United States."

Reciting a poem, Traylor noted that "your home town is what you make it."

Edwin Bayley acted as program chairman. Alvin Babb presided.

Thre will be no meeting at the hotel next week, with members touring the T. K. Roofing Co. plant at Chester.

Hospital Treats 11 In Area, Including Pair Hurt In Falls

A Wellsville youth hurt in a tumble from a tree and a LaCroft woman injured in a fall Tuesday were in "fair" condition today at City Hospital, where nine other district residents were treated and released after mishaps yesterday.

Glenn Baldwin, 11, son of Allen Baldwin of 1708 Maple Ave., Wellsville, was admitted about 9:15 p. m. after he slipped from a tree 10 feet onto a concrete walk. He received possible concussion, abrasions of the nose and bruises and cuts of the lip and chest.

Mrs. Sarah Louise Fitch of Densmore Ave., LaCroft, suffered injuries to the left shoulder in a fall, and was admitted at 6 p. m.

Paul Ingram, 23, of Rogers R. D. 1, an employe of the American Vitrified Products Co., was treated last night for a fractured finger, after it became caught between pipe and a high lift at work.

Mrs. Bonnie Smith of 634 Blackmore St. fell in the street in front of her home, suffering abrasions of the knee and bruises of the ankle.

Rotarians Hear Traylor

Change In Attitude Urged By Minister During Talk

Humorous stories from both modern life and the Bible were used by the Rev. E. C. Traylor, minister of the First Church of Christ, as he discussed "Enough Is Enough" at the noon luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday at the Travelers Hotel.

Commenting on the wants and desires of people, he said, "Most people want more than they have, yet don't use what they've got."

A comparative newcomer to the community, Rev. Traylor said he liked East Liverpool very much, but, "if there was one thing he could change, it would be the attitude of the people here."

He said too many refer to East Liverpool as "this d— town," yet, he said, "there is enough potential in the East Liverpool area that, if cultivated, it could become one of the greatest areas in the United States."

Reciting a poem, Traylor noted that "your home town is what you make it."

Edwin Bayley acted as program chairman. Alvin Babb presided.

Thre will be no meeting at the hotel next week, with members touring the T. K. Roofing Co. plant at Chester.

Scrapyard Hand Has Close Call With Bomb

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Scrapyard worker Richard Miller may have come about as close to disaster as a man can get, but his memory may have saved him—and many others.

He was cutting away Tuesday at what he thought was a round weight used to knock down walls in demolition work when he recognized some screws he had seen as a serviceman. He'd seen them on bombs.

He put down his torch and told scrapyard owner Robert Shaevitz, who had obtained the object two months ago from a scrapyard in Jackson and also though it was a demolition weight.

The "thing" turned out to be a live 500-pound warhead from a Tiny Tim Rocket containing 250 pounds of explosives.

A bomb disposal unit from Clinton County Air Force Base at Wilmington was called in. Experts said the bomb was not armed, but refused to move it unless Shaevitz assumed liability for removing the explosive and agreed to pay the $800 it would cost to transport it to the Ravenna Arsenal, more than 175 miles away.

Shaevitz balked.

Mayor Charles H. Fair, a retired Army colonel, entered the picture, did a fast job of slicing military red tape and the live warhead was moved out of the city Tuesday evening.

Fair got on the telephone and called an "old army buddy" at Ft. Meade, Md. He received immediate authorization for the military to remove the warhead.

Chillicothe Iron & Metal Co. workmen, supervised by the bomb disposal experts, gently picked the bomb up by crane, loaded it onto a truck and took it to an airport three miles north of the city. It was under guard through the night.

A helicopter was to fly here from Dayton this morning to move the warhead to the Ravenna Arsenal.

Although the warhead was not armed, Lt. Michael Ryan of the Air Force bomb unit said he was surprised it had not gone off—being banged around as much as it had. He said a jolt, heat or pressure could have set it off—and that it was powerful enough to level a city block.

900 More Slated To Be Hired At Lordstown Plant

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The Chevrolet-Fisher Body assembly plant under construction at Lordstown will employ an additional 900 persons, a company spokesman said in announcing further expansion of the facility Tuesday.

The plant is expected to open next spring, said L. Ralph Mason, general manufacturing manager in charge of Chevrolet Division's 34 plants across the country. He said employment at Lordstown will be 5,700 instead of 4,800.

Mason said an additional 225,000 square feet of floor space is planned for the plant, which originally was announced at 1.5 million square feet.

Mason spoke to 150 community leaders who attended a "Welcome to Chevrolet and Fisher Body" dinner. Gov. James A. Rhodes attended.

Construction at the plant, five miles south of here, was halted for a second day Tuesday, however, by an unauthorized strike involving between 700 and 800 men employed by the general contractor at the multi-million dollar facility.

Young Army Widow Plans More Aid For Vietnamese

SUFFERN, N.Y. (AP) — A pretty, young Army widow who aids a Vietnamese village with medicines and infant food in memory of her husband now proposes to help children there with school supplies.

From her farmhouse outside this village of 5,500, Barbara Spruill discussed her interest in the Mekong River delta village of Cai Son, 10,000 miles away.

"Jim had talked often about the school and the children," said Mrs. Spruill, 32. "He was teaching a small English class."

Her husband, Capt. James P. Spruill of Plymouth, N.C., lived in Cai Son for five months as military adviser until his Jeep touched off a Communist land mine a year ago. The blast killed him, a U.S. Army sergeant and three Vietnamese soldiers.

In the captain's letters, and later in his diary, Mrs. Spruill read of another Viet Cong mine explosion that had gravely injured four children. The diary noted that this emergency had wiped out the village's medical supplies.

"Jim was trying hard to do something there," Mrs. Spruill said.

She wrote to several U.S. pharmaceutical companies, asking for medicines, infant formulas and powdered milk. They responded with the gifts and paid for shipping them.

"The Vietnamese made a big ceremony of accepting them," Mrs. Spruill said, opening a scrapbook to copies of speeches by local dignitaries. The main speaker had been Lt. Col. Nguyen Khac Tuan, chief of the Vinh Long Province.

"I don't think I'm going to contact any school supply firms," she said. "I probably will just send the money and maybe they can purchase Vietnamese supplies and that way it wouldn't be another isolated American gift."

The Army compiled excerpts from his Viet Nam letters in a 12-page booklet, "The Line is Drawn."

This and other mementos adorn the farmhouse apartment: a Purple Heart and other medals, framed behind glass. A portrait of the West Point cadet. A snapshot of the captain in Viet Nam, a sub-machine gun casually held in one hand. A fat scrapbook.

They keep alive the memory for Barbara Spruill and her two children, Mark, 8, and Elisabeth, 5.

On the wall hangs a work of Vietnamese art, lacquered wood, sent to her by the colonel on behalf of his people.

The villagers also erected a stone monument on the spot where the jeep was blasted. It bears the names of the victims, the date and the words, "Well done. Be thou at peace."

Young Army Widow Plans More Aid For Vietnamese

SUFFERN, N.Y. (AP) — A pretty, young Army widow who aids a Vietnamese village with medicines and infant food in memory of her husband now proposes to help children there with school supplies.

From her farmhouse outside this village of 5,500, Barbara Spruill discussed her interest in the Mekong River delta village of Cai Son, 10,000 miles away.

"Jim had talked often about the school and the children," said Mrs. Spruill, 32. "He was teaching a small English class."

Her husband, Capt. James P. Spruill of Plymouth, N.C., lived in Cai Son for five months as military adviser until his Jeep touched off a Communist land mine a year ago. The blast killed him, a U.S. Army sergeant and three Vietnamese soldiers.

In the captain's letters, and later in his diary, Mrs. Spruill read of another Viet Cong mine explosion that had gravely injured four children. The diary noted that this emergency had wiped out the village's medical supplies.

"Jim was trying hard to do something there," Mrs. Spruill said.

She wrote to several U.S. pharmaceutical companies, asking for medicines, infant formulas and powdered milk. They responded with the gifts and paid for shipping them.

"The Vietnamese made a big ceremony of accepting them," Mrs. Spruill said, opening a scrapbook to copies of speeches by local dignitaries. The main speaker had been Lt. Col. Nguyen Khac Tuan, chief of the Vinh Long Province.

"I don't think I'm going to contact any school supply firms," she said. "I probably will just send the money and maybe they can purchase Vietnamese supplies and that way it wouldn't be another isolated American gift."

The Army compiled excerpts from his Viet Nam letters in a 12-page booklet, "The Line is Drawn."

This and other mementos adorn the farmhouse apartment: a Purple Heart and other medals, framed behind glass. A portrait of the West Point cadet. A snapshot of the captain in Viet Nam, a sub-machine gun casually held in one hand. A fat scrapbook.

They keep alive the memory for Barbara Spruill and her two children, Mark, 8, and Elisabeth, 5.

On the wall hangs a work of Vietnamese art, lacquered wood, sent to her by the colonel on behalf of his people.

The villagers also erected a stone monument on the spot where the jeep was blasted. It bears the names of the victims, the date and the words, "Well done. Be thou at peace."

Employed were Mrs. Ruby B. Shaff, Salineville, elementary English, and Miss Ruth Ulbrick, graduate of Eastern Kentucky who has taught for seven years in Maine, to teach modern math. Barry James, 7-8 grade teacher at Lincoln, was given a continuing contract, and Mrs. Jane Cannon was hired as crossing guard.

The board agreed to pay tuition of Barbara Dotson who was transferred to Berea schools, and waived one - eighth health physical education credit for Nancy Prasco due to personal illness at the request of her family doctor.

The board approved a list of 103 seniors, who, if they pass all their subjects, will be graduated June 4. Baccalaureate is set for May 23.

The board discussed repair needed for a gas steam boiler that heats the high school gymnasium and ordered Supt. Oliver Payne to contact local heating and plumbing contractors to get bids.

Also discussed was the summer school in Salem which the northern Columbiana County superintendents have organized. It has been requested that all Lisbon students go to the Salem school for summer studies unless the subject they wish to take is not given at Salem. Tuition wlil be charged for this year, but it is hoped that the state might take over next year.

Discussion was held on summer maintenance for manual typewriters. Action was tabled until more information is received on the two bids.

Supt. Payne reported on the five school boards meeting to be held May 20 in East Palestine. The board also discussed student insurance and agreed to accept data for insurance companies on student policies. The present company has raised the charge for high school students to $5.

The board aired the summer maintenance program. Atty. Richard D. Kennedy said he thought the board should look into the general renovation of the high school, and if necessary get an architect to study what it would cost. At present the heating system is faulty and leaks are in most of the roofs, including the large gymnasium.

Cornell P. Monda, school psychologist, discussed his salary schedule with the board. His present salary is $7,500 for nine months. He claimed the state is paying more to the board than he receives. Board members said they didn't think this was correct, but said they would check it out.

Bills of $35,079.77 for payrolls and $6,121.73 for expenses were ordered paid. The board's next meeting will be June 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Ohio Senate GOP Assures Approval Of 5 Appointees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Senate Republicans have assured confirmation of five administration appointees by placing them in the Senate Rules Committee, beyond the reach of the Democrats.

Under the Constitution, the appointments will be automatically confirmed upon adjournment of the legislature if they are not acted upon.

The Republicans dominate the Rules Committee, 5-3, and can keep them bottled up indefinitely.

Democrats earlier this year were able to reject confirmation of five Republican appointees because floor votes were taken in the absence of an ill GOP senator from the unevenly divided upper chamber.

One of the appointments announced Tuesday will replace that of Carl A. Mintz of Cleveland as an employer representative on the Regional Workmen's Compensation Board of Review. Mintz was one of the five rejected by Democrats.

The governor named Louis J. Doria, Cleveland Republican, to replace Mintz on the board. The other four appointments are new. All Republicans, they are:

Harold L. Yochum, Columbus, to the Education Assistance Commission.

Stanley J. McKie, Cincinnati, to the board of trustees of Miami University.

David H. Shawan, Bexley to the Higher Education Assistance Commission.

Irving B. Warrick, Columbus, to the Interstate Compact on Juveniles.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Exercise, Go Hungry, Or Get Fat

Ida Jean Kain

If exercise were a built - in factor in our way of life, weight control would be too. Now that machinery has taken the place of muscle action, we have three choices: To make time for exercise, to cut calories and go slightly hungry—or get fat. No matter how you rationalize, calorie intake must balance energy outgo, or the result is adipose tissue. Excess calories are stored, usually in the most conspicuous places — under the chin, over the hips and around the middle.

—:—

TODAY most everyone tries to keep calories on the safe and svelte side. But wouldn't we be better off to step up exercise and in this way burn more calories? When calories are near the borderline of requirements, body repair is likely to be shoddy. Calorie intake must cover the nutrients needed for repair, regulating and replenishing purposes, as well as to meet energy needs.

It is abundantly clear that exercise is the answer to our national weight problem. Muscles are marveously efficient for converting food into energy. Some of you have asked if isometrics are adequate to meet our exercise needs. The answer is no. Isometrics have been called the lazy man's exercise, since they take so little time and effort. Such a routine helps to increase the strength of the muscles used, which, of course is all to the good. But isometrics alone are not enough to keep you physically fit and feeling fine. Furthermore, since little effort is exerted, few calories are burned.

THERE ARE no hard and fast rules regarding the amount of exercise needed, for this is an individual matter, and it depends on one's age and physical condition. A good test of the amount of exercise is this: Do you feel better for it the following day? If you feel unduly tired, you've overdone.

There is no question that we would be better off for exercising in the out-of-doors three times a week. The best exercise is the one you enjoy the most. What outdoor exercise gives you a lift — golf, tennis, swimming, biking, horseback riding, hiking, gardening? If you can have fun and keep fit too, you're in clover. Don't over-do, particularly on week-ends.

Exercise should not be a sometime thing. Regularity is more important than the kind of exercise taken. For the person who is not able to take much exercise, walking is the best.

All this does not belittle the benefits of taking isometrics or calisthenics, a word which means beauty and strength. A 10-minute session can help to keep the body toned up. Even so, a general exercise program is necessary to control weight and add that extra fillip of fine feeling. Get out and greet the spring!

Lisbon Queen Contest Plans Are Completed

LISBON — Plans have been completed for the beauty pageant and crowning of "Miss Railroad Centennial" July 17 at the fairgrounds in conjunction with the week-long celebration to be held here.

Chairman Howard Rose announced that posters and entry blanks are being placed in high schools in the county and in various business establishments.

The pageant is being sponsored by the Lisbon Junior Chamber of Commerce and will mark the beginning of the observance commemorating the first railroad in Lisbon.

The following are the pageant rules:

All contestants must be single and between the ages of 16 to 25, inclusive; all must reside in Columbiana County; all must be available to participate in all functions of the centennial celebration during the week of July 17 through 26.

All must wear evening gowns for the dance and crowning ceremony to be held at the Floral Hall at the fairgrounds; all under 18 years of age must have parental consent to enter; all must furnish own wearing apparel (evening gown and sportswear); all will be required to obtain a sponsor; if unable to do so, an application must be sent to Chairman Rose for sponsor assistance.

Judging will be conducted on July 17 at the grandstand at the fairgrounds, with trophies to be awarded the queen and the four runnersup. The queen will receive a wrist watch and a three-piece matched set of luggage.

All entries must be postmarked by June 26 and mailed to Howard Rose, 130 Pritchard Ave., Lisbon, Ohio.

Nutrition Will Be Stressed At Four-Week Sheep School

LISBON — A four - week sheep school on the subject of nutrition is being planned by members of the Tri - County Sheep Committee of Columbiana, Carroll and Mahoning counties, according to Robert Lewis, county extension agent in 4-H work.

The tentative dates will be Oct. 5-12-19 and 26 for the Columbiana - Mahoning county sheepmen and some time in January for the Carroll County group. The committee decided to divide the area because of traveling distance.

The first session will concern the basic principles of nutrition for brood sheep and lambs and nutritional diseases in lambs and sheep. The second session will be on feeding brood ewes and creep feeding lambs.

The third and fourth sessions will involve feeder lambs and feeding for intensified production of lambs and wool.

Tentative speakers for the sessions include Dr. Jack Cline and Dr. William Tyznik of the Animal Science Department at Ohio State University; D. S. Bell of the Ohio Experiment Station at Wooster, and Ralph Crimshaw of the Ohio Extension Service.

The school will replace the present summer meeting that the group has had in the past. The purpose of the school will be to provide area sheepmen with a better understanding of nutrition and how it affects sheep production in this area.

Death Sentence Given 1 Of 2 In Cabbie's Slaying

CLEVELAND (AP)—One of two men accused in the holdup slaying of cab driver Ernest Williams last Oct. 20 is under sentence of death in the electric chair Sept. 30.

Kenneth J. White, 23 unemployed was convicted late Tuesday by three judges who deliberated less than three hours. His attorney, Gerald S. Gold, said he intended to appeal for a new trial.

Judge Hugh A. Corrigan's voice faltered as he pronounced the death sentence, and Judge Francis J. Talty broke into tears at the words: "And may God have mercy on your soul."

The death sentence was the first in Cuyahoga County since May 20, 1963.

In the seven-day trial the defense argued it was doubtful whether White or Leon Samuels, 24, his alleged accomplice, had fired the fatal shots. Samuels goes on trial June 7 on first degree murder charges.

Asphyxiation Ruled In Death Of Man

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — A motorist from Barboursville, Ky., 39-year-old Harold L. Dozier, was found dead here Tuesday in a burned abandoned car and the coroner has ruled death due to asphyxiation.

Dozier was released from the Lima jail Monday after serving a sentence on an intoxication charge. Officials said the fire apparently was started by a cigarette after Dozier fell asleep.

Too Many Candidates

MUNFORDVILLE, Ky. (AP) — David Stewart, the incumbent county clerk, figured out a way to keep candidates from wasting their campaign cards on each other. Stewart, one of 57 who entered the May primary, had buttons made which read: "Don't Shake My Hand—I'm a candidate too."

Poisonous Products Can Be Dangerous

"Every year approximately 500,000 children under five accidentally swallow poisonous or potentially poisonous products, and about 500 of them die." Henry L. Verhulst says this in his article, "What Do You Know About Accidental Poisoning?" in the March, 1965, issue of the PTA Magazine. He also points out that this record in this age group is almost half the number of deaths from leukemia, more than five times the number for acute polio, and about two - and - a half-times that for tuberculosis.

Dr. Garry Myers

As soon as the youngster can creep and toddle, he will be attracted to cleaning and polishing agents, bleaches and detergents. Often these are easily within his reach, under the kitchen sink, for example. As he moves about more widely, he may find insecticides, paints, and other poisons in the garage or other places.

—:—

WHEN HE can climb he may reach for all sorts of poisonous materials in the medicine chest. Such hazards may be left about the house within his reach by a careless adult. Obviously, all such perils should be kept beyond the youngster's reach, and older persons should be ever vigilant.

Many pediatricians and drug manufacturers have found ways to make medicines for children palatable — sweetened aspirin for instance. Parents wishing the youngster to take medicine may refer to it as candy with the result that some children may regard all medicine as sweets and take them while alone in dangerously large amounts.

Author Verhulst suggests other sensible precautions: Before giving or taking any medicine be sure to read the label carefully; administer medicine only to the person for whom it is prescribed. Keep clearly legible labels on containers of all substances stored anywhere in the house. Keep potentially dangerous compounds stored in their original containers; never transfer them to cups, bottles or other containers.

THE AUTHOR advises what to do in case of a poison accident. Act quickly. Don't wait to see whether symptoms develop. Call your doctor at once and tell him exactly what happened. He will tell you what to do. Of more than 200,000 trade name household products for sale, he may not know the exact ingredients, but he can quickly get the information from the nearest poison control center.

"The poison control center is a community agency established by local physicians and paramedical personnel. It maintains files of information on the formulation of each compound, its toxicity, and the treatment needed when it is ingested."

In case of delay in communication with the doctor, the following simple rules are emphasized:

1. If medicine has been given incorrectly or swallowed accidentally, cause the child to vomit unless he is unconscious or is having convulsions.

2. Don't cause your child to vomit "if he has swallowed a strongly irritating caustic substance, like lye or strong acid; any substance which burns the skin or causes severe burns of the mouth is likely to be in this class. Give water or milk to dilute the poison then. The author says a quick way of inducing vomiting is to stimulate the back of the child's throat with your finger.

THE AUTHOR of that article on accidental poisoning in children does not make mention of another effective preventive means: teaching the tot early the unambiguous meaning of no. It's conceivable that all accidents to and by young children could be greatly reduced, probably halved, by this measure.

It's certainly not enough to keep poisons and other hazards out of the reach of creeping and toddling youngsters. We need also to train this child to avoid automatically and permanently certain defined dangers.

The American Academy of Pediatrics has a bulletin in which it approves physical pain, such as spanking, for this purpose. The name of the bulletin is, "Obedience Means Safety for Your Child," and was prepared by the Accident Prevention Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics, Evanston, Illinois.

My bulletins, "Training Tot in Early Steps of Safety" and "How to Teach Child Meaning of No," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Chamber Ballots Mailed For Election Of Trustees

Ballots went into the mail today for the annual election of seven members of the Board of Trustees of the Chamber of Commerce.

The ballots went to all members after a nominating committee reported a slate of 14 names for approval at the monthly meeting of the board Tuesday afternoon.

Boys Who Stole Coins For Trip Land In Court

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two 16-year-old youths who financed a fling to Hawaii with a stolen coin collection wound up in Juvenile Court Tuesday.

They were charged by Cleveland Heights police as runaways and habitual truants. The youths, both sons of Cleveland Heights physicians, told Judge Albert A. Woldman they wanted to see whether they could make their way in the world of adults.

Police told Judge Woldman the parents reported the boys missing March 10. The day before one of the boys took his father's coin collection—valued at $2,500—and sold it to a downtown dealer for $950.

They flew from here to California, then to Honolulu.

The arrests were made by Honolulu police after Cleveland Heights police informed them of a letter written by the youths to a friend in Cleveland Heights.

One youth, a musician, was playing saxophone with a five-piece jazz combo in Honolulu. The other boy was working in a store.

Judge Woldman ruled the boys were delinquent and sentenced them to indefinite periods of probation. He ordered that they make restitution for the coins and observe an 11 p.m. curfew.

Keep In Trim

Ida Jean Kain

If exercise were a built - in factor in our way of life, weight control would be too. Now that machinery has taken the place of muscle action, we have three choices: To make time for exercise, to cut calories and go slightly hungry—or get fat. No matter how you rationalize, calorie intake must balance energy outgo, or the result is adipose tissue. Excess calories are stored, usually in the most conspicuous places — under the chin, over the hips and around the middle.

TODAY most everyone tries to keep calories on the safe and svelte side. But wouldn't we be better off to step up exercise and in this way burn more calories? When calories are near the borderline of requirements, body repair is likely to be shoddy. Calorie intake must cover the nutrients needed for repair, regulating and replenishing purposes, as well as to meet energy needs.

It is abundantly clear that exercise is the answer to our national weight problem. Muscles are marveously efficient for converting food into energy. Some of you have asked if isometrics are adequate to meet our exercise needs. The answer is no. Isometrics have been called the lazy man's exercise, since they take so little time and effort. Such a routine helps to increase the strength of the muscles used, which, of course is all to the good. But isometrics alone are not enough to keep you physically fit and feeling fine. Furthermore, since little effort is exerted, few calories are burned.

THERE ARE no hard and fast rules regarding the amount of exercise needed, for this is an individual matter, and it depends on one's age and physical condition. A good test of the amount of exercise is this: Do you feel better for it the following day? If you feel unduly tired, you've overdone.

There is no question that we would be better off for exercising in the out-of-doors three times a week. The best exercise is the one you enjoy the most. What outdoor exercise gives you a lift — golf, tennis, swimming, biking, horseback riding, hiking, gardening? If you can have fun and keep fit too, you're in clover. Don't over-do, particularly on week-ends.

Exercise should not be a sometime thing. Regularity is more important than the kind of exercise taken. For the person who is not able to take much exercise, walking is the best.

All this does not belittle the benefits of taking isometrics or calisthenics, a word which means beauty and strength. A 10-minute session can help to keep the body toned up. Even so, a general exercise program is necessary to control weight and add that extra lilliip of fine feeling. Get out and greet the spring!

Nutrition Will Be Stressed At Four-Week Sheep School

LISBON — A four - week sheep school on the subject of nutrition is being planned by members of the Tri - County Sheep Committee of Columbiana, Carroll and Mahoning counties, according to Robert Lewis, county extension agent in 4-H work.

The tentative dates will be Oct. 5-12-19 and 26 for the Columbiana - Mahoning county sheepmen and some time in January for the Carroll County group. The committee decided to divide the area because of traveling distance.

The first session will concern the basic principles of nutrition for brood sheep and lambs and nutritional diseases in lambs and sheep. The second session will be on feeding brood ewes and creep feeding lambs.

The third and fourth sessions will involve feeder lambs and feeding for intensified production of lambs and wool.

Tentative speakers for the sessions include Dr. Jack Cline and Dr. William Tyznik of the Animal Science Department at Ohio State University; D. S. Bell of the Ohio Experiment Station at Wooster, and Ralph Crimshaw of the Ohio Extension Service.

The school will replace the present summer meeting that the group has had in the past. The purpose of the school will be to provide area sheepmen with a better understanding of nutrition and how it affects sheep production in this area.

Death Sentence Given 1 Of 2 In Cabbie's Slaying

CLEVELAND (AP)—One of two men accused in the holdup slaying of cab driver Ernest Williams last Oct. 20 is under sentence of death in the electric chair Sept. 30.

Kenneth J. White, 23 unemployed was convicted late Tuesday by three judges who deliberated less than three hours. His attorney, Gerald S. Gold, said he intended to appeal for a new trial.

Judge Hugh A. Corrigan's voice faltered as he pronounced the death sentence, and Judge Francis J. Talty broke into tears at the words: "And may God have mercy on your soul."

The death sentence was the first in Cuyahoga County since May 20, 1963.

In the seven-day trial the defense argued it was doubtful whether White or Leon Samuels, 24, his alleged accomplice, had fired the fatal shots. Samuels goes on trial June 7 on first degree murder charges.

Asphyxiation Ruled In Death Of Man

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — A motorist from Barboursville, Ky., 39-year-old Harold L. Dozier, was found dead here Tuesday in a burned abandoned car and the coroner has ruled death due to asphyxiation.

Dozier was released from the Lima jail Monday after serving a sentence on an intoxication charge. Officials said the fire apparently was started by a cigarette after Dozier fell asleep.

Poisonous Products Can Be Dangerous

"Every year approximately 500,000 children under five accidentally swallow poisonous or potentially poisonous products, and about 500 of them die." Henry L. Verhulst says this in his article, "What Do You Know About Accidental Poisoning?" in the March, 1965, issue of the PTA Mag-azine. He also points out that this record in this age group is almost half the number of deaths from leukemia, more than five times the number for acute polio, and about two - and - a half-times that for tuberculosis.

As soon as the youngster can creep and toddle, he will be attracted to cleaning and polishing agents, bleaches and detergents. Often these are easily within his reach, under the kitchen sink, for example. As he moves about more widely, he may find insecticides, paints, and other poisons in the garage or other places.

WHEN HE can climb he may reach for all sorts of poisonous materials in the medicine chest. Such hazards may be left about the house within his reach by a careless adult. Obviously, all such perils should be kept beyond the youngster's reach, and older persons should be ever vigilant.

Many pediatricians and drug manufacturers have found ways to make medicines for children palatable — sweetened aspirin for instance. Parents wishing the youngster to take medicine may refer to it as candy with the result that some children may regard all medicine as sweets and take them while alone in dangerously large amounts.

Author Verhulst suggests other sensible precautions: Before giving or taking any medicine be sure to read the label carefully; administer medicine only to the person for whom it is prescribed. Keep clearly legible labels on containers of all substances stored anywhere in the house. Keep potentially dangerous compounds stored in their original containers; never transfer them to cups, bottles or other containers.

THE AUTHOR advises what to do in case of a poison accident. Act quickly. Don't wait to see whether symptoms develop. Call your doctor at once and tell him exactly what happened. He will tell you what to do. Of more than 200,000 trade name household products for sale, he may not know the exact ingredients, but he can quickly get the information from the nearest poison control center.

"The poison control center is a community agency established by local physicians and paramedical personnel. It maintains files of information on the formulation of each compound, its toxicity, and the treatment needed when it is ingested."

In case of delay in communication with the doctor, the following simple rules are emphasized:

1. If medicine has been given incorrectly or swallowed accidentally, cause the child to vomit unless he is unconscious or is having convulsions.

2. Don't cause your child to vomit "if he has swallowed a strongly irritating caustic substance, like lye or strong acid; any substance which burns the skin or causes severe burns of the mouth is likely to be in this class. Give water or milk to dilute the poison then. The author says a quick way of inducing vomiting is to stimulate the back of the child's throat with your finger.

THE AUTHOR of that article on accidental poisoning in children does not make mention of another effective preventive means: teaching the tot early the unambiguous meaning of no. It's conceivable that all accidents to and by young children could be greatly reduced, probably halved, by this measure.

It's certainly not enough to keep poisons and other hazards out of the reach of creeping and toddling youngsters. We need also to train this child to avoid automatically and permanently certain defined dangers.

The American Academy of Pediatrics has a bulletin in which it approves physical pain, such as spanking, for this purpose. The name of the bulletin is, "Obedience Means Safety for Your Child," and was prepared by the Accident Prevention Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics, Evanston, Illinois.

My bulletins, "Training Tot in Early Steps of Safety" and "How to Teach Child Meaning of No," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Pressure Off Now, Halleck Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The view from Charlie Halleck's window is very different these days.

He looks up at the Capitol dome from across the street now, instead of sitting under it in the inner sanctum of the House Republican leader's office, as he did for six years.

The view is magnificent, but it takes some getting used to for the "gut-fighter" from Indiana.

It should be magnificent, because Halleck had first pick of all the choice offices in the new Rayburn House Office Building.

That was because he was voted out of his leadership post in January by a rebellion of "Young Turk" Republicans who installed Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan in his place.

Halleck had to move on, and so he became the first congressman to settle in the new building, even though it wasn't quite finished then.

Halleck sits in solitary splendor now surrounded by the souvenirs of bygone political wars. A row of miniature elephants parades along the edge of his desk, and there is a golden telephone, the same one he used on the platform at the Republican convention of 1960 in Chicago. The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. gave it to him.

At 64, the ex-leader seems not quite so bouncy as in the days when he marshaled the Republican troops against the Democrats. But he insists a recent medical checkup showed him in good shape.

"The pressure is off now. I don't have to be on the floor for the opening prayer," he said in an interview.

The fact is his stocky form is seldom seen on the House floor since his downfall from the leadership.

As to the party's crushing defeat last November, Halleck said, "I was here when things were a heck of a lot worse. We were down to 88 Republicans in the House back in 1937. We came back, and we will again." There are 140 Republicans now, and 294 Democrats.

He analyzed the election this way: "We should have clobbered the Democrats among the farm folks. But there was a sort of whispering campaign that if you elected Barry Goldwater the whole farm program would be out the window overnight. So we were on the defensive instead of giving the Democrats hell for not delivering on their farm promises."

"Civil rights—." He paused and said with a sigh, "I worked so hard for that. Both the Kennedys bragged on me so much people in my district didn't understand."

But with Goldwater heading the ticket, Halleck said "the colored people in my district wouldn't even vote for me." There was a note of disbelief in his voice.

Halleck said he has no quarrel with President Johnson's policies in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, but felt they were bound to be an issue in the next congressional elections.

"Many times down there with Democrat presidents I've backed them on foreign policy. It goes back to the Truman Doctrine in Turkey. I'd say, 'Mr. President, if that's the policy I'm for it.' But sometimes it seems we get called in when the sirens are blowing for a crash landing instead of when the whistle blows for the takeoff."

Halleck said he sometimes disagrees with the new leader, Ford, on policy matters, but he believes in party unity.

The "new image" Republicans who worked to oust Halleck said the party leadership must do more than oppose, that it must develop reasonable alternatives to Democratic programs.

Police Stage Rescue But It Costs $12.15

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — An ambulance and police hurried on an emergency call to find a couple sleeping in a car with the windows closed, doors locked and the engine running.

Fearing carbon monoxide poisoning, the officers tried to arouse the couple by banging the windows.

Two hours late, the man presented police with a bill for $12.15 for the broken glass.

Police, after checking with their attorney, paid it.

Teachers In Oklahoma Eye School Boycott Next Year

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Inspired by national support, many Oklahoma teachers were ready today to boycott public schools next year to obtain upgraded educational standards.

The Oklahoma Education Association board of directors appeared more reluctant to go along with the vote Tuesday at a statewide meeting. The parent National Education Association agreed to apply nationwide sanctions against the Oklahoma school system.

"We're not ready to wreck the Oklahoma school system," OEA President Raymond Knight said for the state board of directors.

More than 8,000 of the state's 22,000 teachers attended the one-day meeting to protest failure of the legislature to increase educational appropriations and failure of a statewide vote April 27 to boost the state sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent to aid school financing.

The OEA has set a goal of $1,000-per-year salary increase for teachers. The average salary is $5,160 compared with the national average of $6,235. Beginning salary with a bachelor's degree is $3,800.

The sanction by the NEA was requested by the Oklahoma subsidiary group which imposed its own last March.

Oklahoma teachers voted 5,383 to 1,275 in favor of next year's boycott. There were 1,038 "not sure" ballots.

Contents Of Ancestral Home Set For Auction

LONDON (AP) — Many of the valuable contents of Harewood House, ancestral seat of Lord Harewood, cousin of Queen Elizabeth, are to be sold at auction at Christie's in June.

The Earl of Harewood is to sell old master drawings and paintings, silver, and Oriental porcelain, furniture and books.

The sales are expected to realize well in the six figures.

The furniture includes one of the best known of Chippendale's pieces, which some experts consider his finest. It is a great mahogany desk made to the design of Robert Adam when he was designing and decorating the mansion.

Harewood House near York in Yorkshire has been the home of the Lascelles family since 1771. The sister of King George VI married a Lascelle. She was known as the Princess Royal when she died recently. Her husband was the Earl of Harewood, father of the present Earl who has been the director of the Edinburgh Festival of Arts.

Pressure Off Now, Halleck Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The view from Charlie Halleck's window is very different these days.

He looks up at the Capitol dome from across the street now, instead of sitting under it in the inner sanctum of the House Republican leader's office, as he did for six years.

The view is magnificent, but it takes some getting used to for the "gut-fighter" from Indiana.

It should be magnificent, because Halleck had first pick of all the choice offices in the new Rayburn House Office Building.

That was because he was voted out of his leadership post in January by a rebellion of "Young Turk" Republicans who installed Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan in his place.

Halleck had to move on, and so he became the first congressman to settle in the new building, even though it wasn't quite finished then.

Halleck sits in solitary splendor now surrounded by the souvenirs of bygone political wars. A row of miniature elephants parades along the edge of his desk, and there is a golden telephone, the same one he used on the platform at the Republican convention of 1960 in Chicago. The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. gave it to him.

At 64, the ex-leader seems not quite so bouncy as in the days when he marshaled the Republican troops against the Democrats. But he insists a recent medical checkup showed him in good shape.

"The pressure is off now. I don't have to be on the floor for the opening prayer," he said in an interview.

The fact is his stocky form is seldom seen on the House floor since his downfall from the leadership.

As to the party's crushing defeat last November, Halleck said, "I was here when things were a heck of a lot worse. We were down to 88 Republicans in the House back in 1937. We came back, and we will again." There are 140 Republicans now, and 294 Democrats.

He analyzed the election this way: "We should have clobbered the Democrats among the farm folks. But there was a sort of whispering campaign that if you elected Barry Goldwater the whole farm program would be out the window overnight. So we were on the defensive instead of giving the Democrats hell for not delivering on their farm promises."

"Civil rights—." He paused and said with a sigh, "I worked so hard for that. Both the Kennedys bragged on me so much people in my district didn't understand."

But with Goldwater heading the ticket, Halleck said "the colored people in my district wouldn't even vote for me." There was a note of disbelief in his voice.

Halleck said he has no quarrel with President Johnson's policies in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, but felt they were bound to be an issue in the next congressional elections.

"Many times down there with Democrat presidents I've backed them on foreign policy. It goes back to the Truman Doctrine in Turkey. I'd say, 'Mr. President, if that's the policy I'm for it.' But sometimes it seems we get called in when the sirens are blowing for a crash landing instead of when the whistle blows for the takeoff."

Halleck said he sometimes disagrees with the new leader, Ford, on policy matters, but he believes in party unity.

The "new image" Republicans who worked to oust Halleck said the party leadership must do more than oppose, that it must develop reasonable alternatives to Democratic programs.

Police Stage Rescue But It Costs $12.15

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — An ambulance and police hurried on an emergency call to find a couple sleeping in a car with the windows closed, doors locked and the engine running.

Fearing carbon monoxide poisoning, the officers tried to arouse the couple by banging the windows.

When that failed, they broke a window to unlock one of the doors. The couple, appearing groggy, thanked the officers.

Two hours late, the man presented police with a bill for $12.15 for the broken glass.

Police, after checking with their attorney, paid it.

Teachers In Oklahoma Eye School Boycott Next Year

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Inspired by national support, many Oklahoma teachers were ready today to boycott public schools next year to obtain upgraded educational standards.

The Oklahoma Education Association board of directors appeared more reluctant to go along with the vote Tuesday at a statewide meeting. The parent National Education Association agreed to apply nationwide sanctions against the Oklahoma school system.

"We're not ready to wreck the Oklahoma school system," OEA President Raymond Knight said for the state board of directors.

More than 8,000 of the state's 22,000 teachers attended the one-day meeting to protest failure of the legislature to increase educational appropriations and failure of a statewide vote April 27 to boost the state sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent to aid school financing.

The OEA has set a goal of $1,000-per-year salary increase for teachers. The average salary is $5,160 compared with the national average of $6,235. Beginning salary with a bachelor's degree is $3,800.

The sanction by the NEA was requested by the Oklahoma subsidiary group which imposed its own last March.

Oklahoma teachers voted 5,383 to 1,275 in favor of next year's boycott. There were 1,038 "not sure" ballots.

By leading the Philadelphia Eagles in scoring with 84 points last year, 10 - year kicking specialist Sam Baker became the eighth leading scorer in National Football League career records. He has 586 points.

Contents Of Ancestral Home Set For Auction

LONDON (AP) — Many of the valuable contents of Harewood House, ancestral seat of Lord Harewood, cousin of Queen Elizabeth, are to be sold at auction at Christie's in June.

The Earl of Harewood is to sell old master drawings and paintings, silver, and Oriental porcelain, furniture and books.

The sales are expected to realize well in the six figures.

The furniture includes one of the best known of Chippendale's pieces, which some experts consider his finest. It is a great mahogany desk made to the design of Robert Adam when he was designing and decorating the mansion.

Harewood House near York in Yorkshire has been the home of the Lascelles family since 1771. The sister of King George VI married a Lascelle. She was known as the Princess Royal when she died recently. Her husband was the Earl of Harewood, father of the present Earl who has been the director of the Edinburgh Festival of Arts.

New Shoe Store Begins Operations

"Grand opening" will be observed Thursday by this shoe store at its new building at Minnesota and Pennsylvania Aves. in East End.

It is the 48th Pic-Way Self-Serve Shoe Mart in a chain that stretches from northern Ohio to Alabama.

A. J. Kobacker, president of Pic-Way, said the stores are operated "on a mass appeal basis of low price and a wide selection of shoes for every member of the family, with supermarket-type buying features."

In addition to shoes, the store also handles handbags, purses and a full line of stockings for men, women and children.

Kobacker pointed out no salespeople are employed in the Pic-Way operation. "Store mangers and their assistants can give expert advice if it's needed when it comes to fitting shoes, but we've found that most people prefer to do their own choosing and their own fitting.

"It's a low-overhead operation. There are no window displays or fancy fixtures, just supermarket - style shelving and lots of shoes."

The store is open daily from 9 to 9.

Gas Company Work Started

Work started today on installation of a new 6-inch main for the Ohio Valley Gas Co., extending from E. 4th and Walnut Sts. to Bradshaw Ave. and Walnut St.

In a last-minute change made Tuesday afternoon, the company decided to lay the new main in the street, about three feet from the east curb, instead of underneath the sidewalk as planned originally.

Because of the traffic and parking problems created by the work, off-duty policemen will be hired at the company's expense to work at the scene, Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey said. Patrolman William A. Devon was on duty at the job site today.

Parking will be eliminated a block at a time as the job progresses from E. 4th St. toward Bradshaw Ave., the director explained. The ban went into effect today between E. 4th and E. 5th Sts.

Vodrey said the company decided against laying the line under the sidewalk because of engineering problems that arose at the last minute, including questions about replacement of the walks. The torn up sections of street will be replaced with reinforced concrete, he said.

Charles Dickey, retiring president, presided.

A report of the recent eye clinics sponsored by the PTA was given by Mrs. Dickey.

Jerry Foreman, playground committee chairman, has asked for volunteers to help with the project Saturday. Those offering their services are to call HA 4-3113.

"A Trip to North Central States and Canada," by film slides, was shown by Mrs. Foyn Wright of Rogers.

65 Are Freed After Arrest In Demonstration

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—About 65 young people arrested as participants in a civil rights demonstration at the Hammermill Paper Co.'s Erie plant were free today on their own recognizance.

They were arrested Tuesday and charged with obstructing an officer. The arrests followed Hammermill's petition for an injunction to halt the demonstration. It was granted by Erie County Court.

The demonstrators were protesting Hammermill's plans to construct a pulp mill near Selma, Ala., the scene of recent civil rights strife.

The demonstration coincided with Hammermill's annual stockholders meeting in the plant's main administration building.

Meanwhile, demonstrators also picketed Hammermill plants in Lock Haven, Pa., and Hamilton, Ohio.

All of the demonstrations were peaceful.

Bill Approved On Expenses For Servicemen's Families

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House gave final congressional approval Tuesday to a bill to cover expenses of servicemen's dependents evacuated to the United States from such hazardous areas as Viet Nam.

Under existing law, special allowances only apply when the dependents are evacuated to another overseas area.

The legislation will run until June 30, 1966.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Searchers in Antarctica have called off temporarily their efforts to find Carl Robert Disch, 26, who became lost Saturday in blowing snow and 45 below zero temperatures.

The Monrone, Wis., scientist apparently lost his way after leaving a small radio substation for the main Byrd station a mile away.

An eight-man search party, working in two vehicles, went over a 55-square-mile area around the two sites without locating Disch. The group said it would resume the search when weather and visibility improve.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has approved legislation to sharply cut tourists' privileges of bringing in duty-free goods —especially liquor.

The committee included in the bill Tuesday President Johnson's proposal to reduce the amount of goods tourists can bring in from $100 wholesale value per person to $50 retail value.

The liquor restriction would limit to one quart the duty-free import, and it would apply only to persons over 21. At present, all members of a party—including infants—are entitled to bring in one gallon duty-free.

The Federal Reserve System, central banking system of the United States, was established Dec. 23, 1913.

Governor Would Approve 'Fair' Housing Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes said today that he would sign an anti-discrimination housing bill if one is sent to him by the Legislature.

The governor said he maintained his position at a recent conference with House Speaker Roger Cloud and Senate Majority Leader Ted W. Gray, Republican leaders in the two houses. The three reviewed the current legislative situation, the governor said, and exchanged views without any definite conclusions.

House-passed measures have piled up in the Senate deadlocked on major legislation because of a 16 - 16 division between Democratic and Republican members.

A pending fair housing bill remained bottled up in the Senate Rules Committee because Republicans refused to send it to the floor, according to reports by Democratic members, who said they favored the bill.

EAST PALESTINE — The annual citywide cleanup trash collection, started Tuesday, is being completed today, James Vocature, city health commissioner, reported. A report on the collection will be made later this week.

New Shoe Store Begins Operations

"Grand opening" will be observed Thursday by this shoe store at its new building at Minnesota and Pennsylvania Aves. in East End.

It is the 48th Pic-Way Self-Serve Shoe Mart in a chain that stretches from northern Ohio to Alabama.

A. J. Kobacker, president of Pic-Way, said the stores are operated "on a mass appeal basis of low price and a wide selection of shoes for every member of the family, with supermarket-type buying features."

In addition to shoes, the store also handles handbags, purses and a full line of stockings for men, women and children.

Kobacker pointed out no salespeople are employed in the Pic-Way operation. "Store mangers and their assistants can give expert advice if it's needed when it comes to fitting shoes, but we've found that most people prefer to do their own choosing and their own fitting.

"It's a low-overhead operation. There are no window displays or fancy fixtures, just supermarket - style shelving and lots of shoes."

The store is open daily from 9 to 9.

Gas Company Work Started

Work started today on installation of a new 6-inch main for the Ohio Valley Gas Co., extending from E. 4th and Walnut Sts. to Bradshaw Ave. and Walnut St.

In a last-minute change made Tuesday afternoon, the company decided to lay the new main in the street, about three feet from the east curb, instead of underneath the sidewalk as planned originally.

Because of the traffic and parking problems created by the work, off-duty policemen will be hired at the company's expense to work at the scene, Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey said. Patrolman William A. Devon was on duty at the job site today.

Parking will be eliminated a block at a time as the job progresses from E. 4th St. toward Bradshaw Ave., the director explained. The ban went into effect today between E. 4th and E. 5th Sts.

Vodrey said the company decided against laying the line under the sidewalk because of engineering problems that arose at the last minute, including questions about replacement of the walks. The torn up sections of street will be replaced with reinforced concrete, he said.

New Officers Installed For Elkton PTA

Officers for the 1965-66 term were installed when the Elkton Parent - Teacher Association met Monday night at the school.

They are: William Madison, president; Mrs. Richard Rudibaugh, vice president; Mrs. Jack C. Watson, secretary, and Mrs Herbert Martin, treasurer.

Charles Dickey, retiring president, presided.

A gift was awarded the class taught by Mrs. Carl Maurer for the best average attendance of parents during the past year. The class received the attendance banner four times.

A report of the recent eye clinics sponsored by the PTA was given by Mrs. Dickey.

Jerry Foreman, playground committee chairman, has asked for volunteers to help with the project Saturday. Those offering their services are to call HA 4-3113.

"A Trip to North Central States and Canada," by film slides, was shown by Mrs. Foyn Wright of Rogers.

Mrs. Charles Y. Carlisle's class received the attendance banner for this meeting, last of the school term. Mrs. Carlisle is retiring after 44 years of teaching. For the last 17 years she has taught at Elkton School. Except for one year, when she taught at Akron, Mrs. Carlisle has served in the Beaver Local school area.

An "open house reception" in her honor will be held at the school May 26 from 7 to 9 p.m. by the PTA, with all former students of Mrs. Carlisle especially invited to attend.

Wyoming has a 17-11-2 football record for the last four seasons under Coach Lloyd W. Eaton.

65 Are Freed After Arrest In Demonstration

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—About 65 young people arrested as participants in a civil rights demonstration at the Hammermill Paper Co.'s Erie plant were free today on their own recognizance.

They were arrested Tuesday and charged with obstructing an officer. The arrests followed Hammermill's petition for an injunction to halt the demonstration. It was granted by Erie County Court.

The demonstrators were protesting Hammermill's plans to construct a pulp mill near Selma, Ala., the scene of recent civil rights strife.

The demonstration coincided with Hammermill's annual stockholders meeting in the plant's main administration building.

Meanwhile, demonstrators also picketed Hammermill plants in Lock Haven, Pa., and Hamilton, Ohio.

All of the demonstrations were peaceful.

Bill Approved On Expenses For Servicemen's Families

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House gave final congressional approval Tuesday to a bill to cover expenses of servicemen's dependents evacuated to the United States from such hazardous areas as Viet Nam.

Under existing law, special allowances only apply when the dependents are evacuated to another overseas area.

The legislation will run until June 30, 1966.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Searchers in Antarctica have called off temporarily their efforts to find Carl Robert Disch, 26, who became lost Saturday in blowing snow and 45 below zero temperatures.

The Monrone, Wis., scientist apparently lost his way after leaving a small radio substation for the main Byrd station a mile away.

An eight-man search party, working in two vehicles, went over a 55-square-mile area around the two sites without locating Disch. The group said it would resume the search when weather and visibility improve.

-:-

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has approved legislation to sharply cut tourists' privileges of bringing in duty-free goods —especially liquor.

The committee included in the bill Tuesday President Johnson's proposal to reduce the amount of goods tourists can bring in from $100 wholesale value per person to $50 retail value.

The liquor restriction would limit to one quart the duty-free import, and it would apply only to persons over 21. At present, all members of a party—including infants—are entitled to bring in one gallon duty-free.

The Federal Reserve System, central banking system of the United States, was established Dec. 23, 1913.

Governor Would Approve 'Fair' Housing Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes said today that he would sign an anti-discrimination housing bill if one is sent to him by the Legislature.

The governor said he maintained his position at a recent conference with House Speaker Roger Cloud and Senate Majority Leader Ted W. Gray, Republican leaders in the two houses. The three reviewed the current legislative situation, the governor said, and exchanged views without any definite conclusions.

House-passed measures have piled up in the Senate deadlocked on major legislation because of a 16 - 16 division between Democratic and Republican members.

A pending fair housing bill remained bottled up in the Senate Rules Committee because Republicans refused to send it to the floor, according to reports by Democratic members, who said they favored the bill.

A roundtable discussion was held at a meeting of the club Tuesday noon at Piatt's Tea Room.

Topics discussed were attendance, activities and fund - raising.

Senior Event Slated

SALINEVILLE — Presentation of awards for scholarship, activities, individual sports honors, music and other citations will be made at the annual Senior Assembly Tuesday at Southern Local High School, Tom Leek, principal, announced.

Power For Socialists, Brandt

New Political Pattern Looms In West Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — A new political pattern may be emerging in West Germany to give Willy Brandt and his Socialist party their first taste of national power in over a generation.

The new setup would be a partnership between the Socialists and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats, who have dominated the country ever since West Germany acquired its own government after World War II. The Socialists have not held a national Cabinet post since before Adolf Hitler took power in the early 1930s.

A shift probably would mean Brandt's taking over either the chancellorship or the Foreign Ministry this fall. He now is mayor of West Berlin.

Many Christian Democrats oppose such a partnership, particularly ex-Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who still is the nominal party leader. But they may be forced into it, and Erhard has tried not to shut the door on it.

Just this kind of partnership seems to be forming in Lower Saxony, one of West Germany's largest states. Under the parliamentary system practiced there, coalitions are necessary when no single party controls a clear majority in the legislature.

The same system applies on state and national levels.

In Lower Saxony the Socialists happen to be the biggest party, but they have no majority. They have been governing with the help of the smaller Free Democratic party.

Now this local team is breaking up. The Free Democrats are refusing to go along on an agreement with the Vatican about Church schools, since they traditionally stand for separation of church and state.

Pilot, 17, Lands His Disabled Plane Safely

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — A 17-year-old pilot landed his T34 trainer plane without incident on a foam-covered runway at Tinker Air Force Base Tuesday after the craft developed landing gear trouble.

Veterans who witnessed the landing by Alec Caudell, son of Air Force Sgt. William C. Caudell, said it was nearly perfect. The elder Caudell is manager of the base's Tinker Aero Club, a civilian organization permitted to borrow military craft for training.

Young Caudell, a senior at suburban Del City has had his pilot's license 11 months.

Alaska, with an area of 586-400 square miles, is the largest state in the union.

Flying Boat Testers Dunked As Craft Flips

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Testers of a flying boat designed to zip commuters across San Francisco Bay were dunked Tuesday when the craft capsized.

The four passengers in the Hovercraft, which rides on a jet-air cushion some four feet above the waves, were rescued by a military patrol boat. The Hovercraft was towed to shore.

"We went into a right turn at about 60 miles per hour, and the centrifugal force gently rolled us over," said John Cunningham, vice president of San Francisco-Oakland Helicopter Airlines.

"We won't be doing maneuvers like that on any commercial trips," said Cunningham. "In the tests we're finding out the limits."

Ohio 5-Day Forecast

Mild with temperatures averaging 3 to 6 degrees above normal. Warm Thursday and Friday, a little cooler over the weekend. Representative normal highs and lows are Cleveland 68-46, Cincinnati 65-53 and Columbus 73-49. Showers about first of next week will average less than a quarter-inch.

NYC President Says Profit Picture Bright

CLEVELAND (AP) — The New York Central Railroad's annual meeting, held in Cleveland for the first time and lasting just 40 minutes, brought stockholders assurance from the carrier's president that the profit picture is bright.

Alfred E. Perlman said approval of merger with the Pennsylvania Railroad will permit further economies and improved earnings. He said management is gearing its plans to "the prospect of an early final approval."

Perlman said "some of our outstanding competitive victories have been due to the unit train concept." He mentioned that unit trains won back coal shipments Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. had been transporting from Southern Ohio by a pipe line.

Power For Socialists, Brandt

New Political Pattern Looms In West Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — A new political pattern may be emerging in West Germany to give Willy Brandt and his Socialist party their first taste of national power in over a generation.

The new setup would be a partnership between the Socialists and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats, who have dominated the country ever since West Germany acquired its own government after World War II. The Socialists have not held a national Cabinet post since before Adolf Hitler took power in the early 1930s.

A shift probably would mean Brandt's taking over either the chancellorship or the Foreign Ministry this fall. He now is mayor of West Berlin.

Many Christian Democrats oppose such a partnership, particularly ex-Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who still is the nominal party leader. But they may be forced into it, and Erhard has tried not to shut the door on it.

Just this kind of partnership seems to be forming in Lower Saxony, one of West Germany's largest states. Under the parliamentary system practiced there, coalitions are necessary when no single party controls a clear majority in the legislature.

The same system applies on state and national levels.

In Lower Saxony the Socialists happen to be the biggest party, but they have no majority. They have been governing with the help of the smaller Free Democratic party.

Now this local team is breaking up. The Free Democrats are refusing to go along on an agreement with the Vatican about Church schools, since they traditionally stand for separation of church and state.

With national elections coming up Sept. 19, many Free Democrats also feel they can make a better showing by going into opposition.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm not a Bible - waving crank. I'm an average American teen - ager who wants to ask you a simple question. What has happened to decent movies?

Once upon a time movies had a plot and stars had talent. Today almost any chick with eye-popping curves (and no scruples about who sees them) can be a movie queen provided she has the proper buildup. I believe the least that can be done for the public is to let us know in advance what we are getting into.

Too many times I have taken a date to a movie which was advertised as "a rollicking comedy" or a "delightfully gay and witty musical," and instead we saw a vulgar display of half-nude morons chasing each other around the bedroom.

I'm sick of bedroom scenes, bathtub scenes, shower scenes and men and women prancing on beaches with almost nothing on.

What can be done to elevate the standards of films and clean up the movies?—DIZZGUZTED.

-:-

Dear Dizz: If enough people complain to the theater managers (in writing) something will be done. The customer is still king.

Blackjack Game

Dear Ann: At this very moment there is a terrific argument raging in our living room. My mother and dad are really going at it. Here are the facts and I'd like your opinion—fast.

My 11-year-old sister is in a play being sponsored by our church group. The kids are selling tickets for 50 cents each.

My parents are having a poker party next week. Mother thinks it would be all right if my sister went around the table and asked the guests if they would like to buy a ticket or two.

Mom says the price of a ticket is no more than what a person would put into a couple of pots. Besides, she says it's for a very good cause.

Dad is violently opposed. What is your verdict?—BIG SISTER.

Dear Big Sister: I agree with your Dad. It's an out-and-out clobber and the guests would have a right to resent it.

Outsmarted Self

Dear Ann: Do you think it is possible for a person to be too kind hearted for her own good? Well, right now I could kick myself for being "Little Goody Two Shoes." Please tell me how to unwind this mess and I promise I'll never do anyone a favor again as long as I live.

I had to leave town with my folks two weeks ago. This meant I couldn't go to the big DeMolay dance so I asked my Numero Uno, Chris, to please take my cousin Beatrice, who never has a date to anything. (I even let her wear my dress!)

Well, Chris and Beatrice have been like glued together ever since. There must be a side to my cousin Beatrice that I didn't know about. She keeps thanking me for "changing her whole life."

My whole life is changed, too. I'm sitting home like an old maid. Chris hasn't said anything but I expect the "nice to have known you" routine any minute.

How can I get my boy friend back:—MISS NUT HEAD.

Dear Miss: If cousin Beatrice was able to do such a slick job of getting Chris interested in her he must have been plenty ripe for the picking.

You can't keep a guy locked up and blindfolded. If it hadn't been Beatrice it would have been another gal. Accept the realities and cast again.

Confidentially

TO A PIECE OF MY MIND: Thanks a lot, but I don't think you should have given me the last piece. Your letter was a rare combination of bigotry and nonsense.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Classical Languages

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—It's an act of barbarism to deny children the opportunity of studying Greek or Latin, says Sir Basil Blackwell, president of the Classical Association.

Sir Basil, 74, said that mastery of a classical language extracted a knowledge and understanding of the intellectual roots of our civilization which could be achieved in no other way.

Multimillion-Dollar Punch

Winter's Cold, Spring's Violence Hit Fruit Crop

CHICAGO (AP) — Winter's cold and spring's violence delivered a multimillion-dollar one-two punch to many of the nation's fruit crops this year, an Associated Press survey indicates.

Heavy damage from California to New England was reported. Only the Southeast escaped major losses.

Preliminary estimates placed fruit crop losses at more than $10 million, conservation and state officials said.

Hardest hit was the lush apple and peach country of the Northwest where subzero December cold and spring frost all but wiped out the production of many orchards.

The weather's victims included peaches, apricots, cherries, apples, pears and strawberries.

Washington State officials said pear and cherry crops had been heavily damaged and the apricot and peach crops ruined. The strawberry crop in the westen half of the state was expected to be 50 per cent below last year's yield.

Oregon reported extensive damage to strawberries and cherries in the Hood River, the Dalles, Freewater and La Grande areas.

Utah, where one county has suffered an estimated total of $4 million in fruit loss, has asked President Johnson to declare five counties disaster areas. Most of the damage to peach, apricot, cherry, apple and pear crops came during a cold snap last week.

The extended winter took its heaviest crop toll across the country in strawberries.

California reported its valuable crop seriously damaged, with losses in Los Angeles County estimated at $4 million. New England also reported heavy strawberry damage, and Louisiana said its production had dropped sharply.

In the Midwest, tornadoes and floods have raged since March, but crop experts blamed the long winter for most damage. Some Illinois areas reported up to 95 per cent of the peach buds damaged by cold.

Michigan officials said fruit-bud development was about 10 days later than customary.

The effects of the crop delays, agriculture experts said, would be determined by weather patterns in the next few months.

One crop expert said the spring floods, which left thousands of acres of arable land under water, would not hurt the fruit crops, generally planted on higher grounds.

Much more punishing, Agronomy Prof. James Mawry of Southern Illinois University said, were the tornadoes that tore up thousands of fruit trees.

Dick Stuart, now with the Phils, had the eighth best slugging average in the American League last season with .491. He also struck out 130 times.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm not a Bible - waving crank. I'm an average American teen - ager who wants to ask you a simple question. What has happened to decent movies?

Once upon a time movies had a plot and stars had talent. Today almost any chick with eye-popping curves (and no scruples about who sees them) can be a movie queen provided she has the proper buildup. I believe the least that can be done for the public is to let us know in advance what we are getting into.

Too many times I have taken a date to a movie which was advertised as "a rollicking comedy" or a "delightfully gay and witty musical," and instead we saw a vulgar display of half-nude morons chasing each other around the bedroom.

I'm sick of bedroom scenes, bathtub scenes, shower scenes and men and women prancing on beaches with almost nothing on.

What can be done to elevate the standards of films and clean up the movies?—DIZZGUZTED.

-:-

Dear Dizz: If enough people complain to the theater managers (in writing) something will be done. The customer is still king.

Blackjack Game

Dear Ann: At this very moment there is a terrific argument raging in our living room. My mother and dad are really going at it. Here are the facts and I'd like your opinion—fast.

My 11-year-old sister is in a play being sponsored by our church group. The kids are selling tickets for 50 cents each.

My parents are having a poker party next week. Mother thinks it would be all right if my sister went around the table and asked the guests if they would like to buy a ticket or two.

Mom says the price of a ticket is no more than what a person would put into a couple of pots. Besides, she says it's for a very good cause.

Dad is violently opposed. What is your verdict?—BIG SISTER.

-:-

Dear Big Sister: I agree with your Dad. It's an out-and-out clobber and the guests would have a right to resent it.

Outsmarted Self

Dear Ann: Do you think it is possible for a person to be too kind hearted for her own good? Well, right now I could kick myself for being "Little Goody Two Shoes." Please tell me how to unwind this mess and I promise I'll never do anyone a favor again as long as I live.

I had to leave town with my folks two weeks ago. This meant I couldn't go to the big DeMolay dance so I asked my Numero Uno, Chris, to please take my cousin Beatrice, who never has a date to anything. (I even let her wear my dress!)

Well, Chris and Beatrice have been like glued together ever since. There must be a side to my cousin Beatrice that I didn't know about. She keeps thanking me for "changing her whole life."

My whole life is changed, too. I'm sitting home like an old maid. Chris hasn't said anything but I expect the "nice to have known you" routine any minute.

How can I get my boy friend back:—MISS NUT HEAD.

Dear Miss: If cousin Beatrice was able to do such a slick job of getting Chris interested in her he must have been plenty ripe for the picking.

You can't keep a guy locked up and blindfolded. If it hadn't been Beatrice it would have been another gal. Accept the realities and cast again.

Confidentially

TO A PIECE OF MY MIND: Thanks a lot, but I don't think you should have given me the last piece. Your letter was a rare combination of bigotry and nonsense.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Classical Languages

MANCHESTER, England (AP)— It's an act of barbarism to deny children the opportunity of studying Greek or Latin, says Sir Basil Blackwell, president of the Classical Association.

Sir Basil, 74, said that mastery of a classical language extracted a knowledge and understanding of the intellectual roots of our civilization which could be achieved in no other way.

Multimillion-Dollar Punch

Winter's Cold, Spring's Violence Hit Fruit Crop

CHICAGO (AP) — Winter's cold and spring's violence delivered a multimillion-dollar one-two punch to many of the nation's fruit crops this year, an Associated Press survey indicates.

Heavy damage from California to New England was reported. Only the Southeast escaped major losses.

Preliminary estimates placed fruit crop losses at more than $10 million, conservation and state officials said.

Hardest hit was the lush apple and peach country of the Northwest where subzero December cold and spring frost all but wiped out the production of many orchards.

The weather's victims included peaches, apricots, cherries, apples, pears and strawberries.

Washington State officials said pear and cherry crops had been heavily damaged and the apricot and peach crops ruined. The strawberry crop in the westen half of the state was expected to be 50 per cent below last year's yield.

Oregon reported extensive damage to strawberries and cherries in the Hood River, the Dalles, Freewater and La Grande areas.

Utah, where one county has suffered an estimated total of $4 million in fruit loss, has asked President Johnson to declare five counties disaster areas. Most of the damage to peach, apricot, cherry, apple and pear crops came during a cold snap last week.

The extended winter took its heaviest crop toll across the country in strawberries.

California reported its valuable crop seriously damaged, with losses in Los Angeles County estimated at $4 million. New England also reported heavy strawberry damage, and Louisiana said its production had dropped sharply.

In the Midwest, tornadoes and floods have raged since March, but crop experts blamed the long winter for most damage. Some Illinois areas reported up to 95 per cent of the peach buds damaged by cold.

Michigan officials said fruit-bud development was about 10 days later than customary.

The effects of the crop delays, agriculture experts said, would be determined by weather patterns in the next few months.

One crop expert said the spring floods, which left thousands of acres of arable land under water, would not hurt the fruit crops, generally planted on higher grounds.

Much more punishing, Agronomy Prof. James Mawry of Southern Illinois University said, were the tornadoes that tore up thousands of fruit trees.

Dick Stuart, now with the Phils, had the eighth best slugging average in the American League last season with .491. He also struck out 130 times.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen: I want to put a bee in your bonnet and save you some sorrow if you have a silver-plated tray or bowl.

One night, I served deviled eggs, pickles (sour and sweet) and olives on a silver - plated tray. (No book tells you not to). Three hours later, I took my tray to the kitchen to wash it and found pits and horrible marks eaten into it.

The olives were laid on a lettuce leaf. The lettuce leaf made a mark on my silver tray which will never come out. The juice from the olives and pickles came through and "etched" (ate out) the silver.

This broke my heart.

-:-

NOW I HAVE found a way (and if you do it right, no one will know) that you can put deviled eggs, pickles, etc. on silver without turning it.

Clean your silver thoroughly and polish it with a dry cloth.

Then cover the inside of the tray with some plastic wrap—even if it is from a bag from the cleaners. Lay this across your tray and smooth it down with your palms and fingers.

This thin plastic will adhere to your silver, and by the time you get all eggs, olives, etc., on your tray, no one will notice the plastic.

Not only will your guests love you for having a shining tray, but you won't have tarnished and ruined silver the next day.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Attention, typists:

When you've made an error . . . erase as usual and then, before retyping, cover the erased spot with a thin, light line of white chalk and it will conceal your erasure.

It works beautifully.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I'm a 10-year-old girl. I often read your column in the newspaper.

I found that an old detergent bottle or some other plastic container makes a good litter basket for the car.

This plastic container should have the top cut off and it can be decorated. Cut a slit in one side so that it can be hung on a window knob in the car.

These make wonderful presents for our relatives, too.

CAROL ANNE BELL.

DEAR HELOISE: Whenever I decide that it's time to wash the windows, and I can't put it off any longer, I use a clean blackboard eraser — the kind used on schools.

I put the detergent right on the eraser, dip it in water and wash the windows, drying as usual afterwards.

The eraser is wonderful for getting into corners and is so easy to handle.

MISS A. RIGERT.

DEAR HELOISE: I made fitted tablecloths and fitted bench covers for our wooden patio set.

I put a big hem around the edge of each cloth and threaded elastic through them. This is good for several reasons.

If you have youngsters, they can't pull the tablecloths off and when it is windy, there is no need to weight down the corners. It's wonderful.

Attache Cases For Everybody

ABC, CBS and NBC are allowed to own and operate only five stations each. What makes them networks are the "affiliates," which are stations whose owners agree to sign up for a stipulated number of hours of programming from one network.

Hal Humphrey

Part of a network's money and energies constantly must be expended to make sure its affiliates are kept happy. One of the ways this is done is for the network to host an annual affiliates meeting, where the station managers and program directors are wined, dined and shown some of the great new programming they will receive for the coming season.

-:-

LAST WEEK, at a reported cost of $500,000, the CBS network brought its affiliate people (about 500 of them) to Hollywood for a two-day pep talk. Each station man attending was given an expensive black leather attache case and was greeted by CBS President Frank Stanton and the new CBS-TV president, Jack Schneider, who recently replaced the renowned Jim Aubrey.

President Stanton's keynote address was more or less typical.

First there was the big warning against the Federal Communications Commission and its growing tendency to "intefere" in programming. Second was the high resolve to give CBS affiliates the best of everything, which in broadcasting is the highest Nielsen ratings and biggest profits.

-:-

THE NETWORKS are particularly irritated at FCC Chairman E. William Henry at present because he has proposed rules which would limit to 50 per cent the ownership of shows by a given network.

CBS' Stanton also was piqued at Chairman Henry because the latter had said networks were giving public service-type programs only a bare 4 per cent of their time.

"It took us a long time to dig into this to find out where the (FCC) chairman got this 4 per cent figure," Stanton told his affiliates.

For some reason it obviously never occurred to Stanton that a call to Chairman Henry easily might have given him his information and saved him all that digging.

-:-

THE FCC, after all, is an agency of the U.S. government, and Stanton ought to feel free to avail himself of its services.

One of the services performed by the FCC is allocation of frequencies, which makes it possible for several stations to operate in one area so that CBS and the other networks can have affiliates.

But to Stanton and his affiliated stations, the FCC is an enemy. Not a very formidable one, it should be mentioned, however. Not long ago the FCC suggested TV commercials were too much and too many. The broadcasters promptly lobbied the House of Representatives into passing a bill preventing the FCC from doing anything about it.

In last week's call to arms, Stanton told his affiliates that the FCC-proposed 50 per cent ownership of programs rules "are like to make it very difficult for us sensibly to plan an orderly and balanced schedule."

WAS STANTON referring to this season's CBS balanced schedule on Wednesday nights which include five comedy shows in a row—"Mister Ed," "My Living Doll," "Beverly Hillbillies," "Dick Van Dyke" and "Cara Williams"?

If the FCC was allowed to control a network's ownership prophesied it would mean there would be evenings when the network could not provide the affiliate with programs. He did not explain how networks managed to fill every prime-time hour before they decided to own most of the shows.

"But let's get away from the Foggy Bottom of Washington," continued Stanton, "and have a look at where we stand. The CBS Television Network is now in its 12th consecutive year as the world's largest advertising medium and is completing its 11th season as the world's most popular television network."

Now there is something for the affiliates to put into their new shiny, black leather attache cases and take home with them.

Man Gets 1-20 Years For Slaying Ohioan

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — A Lawrence County man, Arthur E. Kinker of near South Point, has been sentenced to 1-20 years in the Ohio Penitentiary for the March 9 slaying of another Lawrence County man, 48-year-old Raymond Pyles.

Kinker pleaded innocent to a second - degree murder indictment but the court accepted his plea of guilty to a manslaughter charge and imposed the sentence Tuesday.

Bellringer Tired

PISA, Italy (AP) — An electric system is being installed to ring the bells in Pisa's famous Leaning Tower, and it is going to save Ezio Ghilardi a lot of climbing. Every day for years the last bellringer of the tower has climbed the 293 steep steps to ring the bells.

Ex-School Board Head Convicted Under Old Law

CLEVELAND (AP) — Conviction of a former suburban school board president on a conflict of interest charge should alert citizens and officials of all Ohio communities to an old and little-used state law, an assistant prosecutor said.

Albert V. Vlasak, 34, who was president of the Garfield Heights Board of Education in 1962-63, was convicted Tuesday by a Common Pleas Court jury that deliberated 1½ hours after a week's trial. Vlasak was charged with taking $2,000 as a consultant for a subcontractor who got a $20,000 contract on an $88,500 project. He admitted receiving the money while he was board president.

Judge Merle Hoddinott delayed sentence, which could be one to 10 years under the 1887 statute, and allowed Vlasak to remain free on $500 bond.

The law prohibits a person holding public office of trust by election or appointment from having an interest in a contract to purchase property, supplies or fire insurance for the governmental unit or public institution with which he is connected.

Man To Get Hearing On Fugitive Warrant

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Ransome Gardner, who police say walked away from an Alabama prison in 1943, will have a hearing in Municipal Court June 10 on a fugitive warrant.

Gardner, 48, is free on $500 bond. He was picked up Monday by Youngstown police from information provided by prison officials in Montgomery, Ala.

Youngstown detectives said Gardner had served two or three months of a 10-year term for robbery before his escape. He has no record of arrests here and has worked for 13 years for the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., police said. He has lived in Youngstown for 22 years.

Canton Councilmen Sued Over Project

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — City councilmen have been sued in the controversy over Canton's $2.4 million urban renewal project.

The 16 members were subpoenaed Tuesday, and the Ohio Supreme Court has given the city until June 12 to file an answer why the suit should not be carried through. A court order is asked in the suit to require council to put the issue on the ballot.

The suit was filed by Richard J. Wingerter, one of five petitioners for a public vote on the urban renewal poject.

Job Mishap Fatal

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A crane boom fell and killed William Lough, 45, of Canton Tuesday at Akron-Canton Airport where he was working as a steel setter on Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.'s new hangar.

Wanted: Man Who Drives, Drinks On Job

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wanted: A young man who drives and drinks on the job.

The Wisconsin Bureau of Personnel listed these among the qualifications in a notice seeking a traveling investigator in the State Beverage and Cigarette Tax Division "to enforce the laws protecting minors."

The bureau said it sought a man 21-30 years old with the ability to drink moderately, drive a car, and work nights and weekends.

Churchill Name Eyed

NEW YORK (AP) — The Board of Education said Tuesday it is considering naming a new high school on Manhattan's West Side after the late Sir Winston Churchill. The school is scheduled to open next fall.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Attache Cases For Everybody

ABC, CBS and NBC are allowed to own and operate only five stations each. What makes them networks are the "affiliates," which are stations whose owners agree to sign up for a stipulated number of hours of programming from one network.

Hal Humphrey

Part of a network's money and energies constantly must be expended to make sure its affiliates are kept happy. One of the ways this is done is for the network to host an annual affiliates meeting, where the station managers and program directors are wined, dined and shown some of the great new programming they will receive for the coming season.

-:-

LAST WEEK, at a reported cost of $500,000, the CBS network brought its affiliate people (about 500 of them) to Hollywood for a two-day pep talk. Each station man attending was given an expensive black leather attache case and was greeted by CBS President Frank Stanton and the new CBS-TV president, Jack Schneider, who recently replaced the renowned Jim Aubrey.

President Stanton's keynote address was more or less typical.

First there was the big warning against the Federal Communications Commission and its growing tendency to "intefere" in programming. Second was the high resolve to give CBS affiliates the best of everything, which in broadcasting is the highest Nielsen ratings and biggest profits.

-:-

THE NETWORKS are particularly irritated at FCC Chairman E. William Henry at present because he has proposed rules which would limit to 50 per cent the ownership of shows by a given network.

CBS' Stanton also was piqued at Chairman Henry because the latter had said networks were giving public service-type programs only a bare 4 per cent of their time.

"It took us a long time to dig into this to find out where the (FCC) chairman got this 4 per cent figure," Stanton told his affiliates.

For some reason it obviously never occurred to Stanton that a call to Chairman Henry easily might have given him his information and saved him all that digging.

THE FCC, after all, is an agency of the U.S. government, and Stanton ought to feel free to avail himself of its services.

One of the services performed by the FCC is allocation of frequencies, which makes it possible for several stations to operate in one area so that CBS and the other networks can have affiliates.

But to Stanton and his affiliated stations, the FCC is an enemy. Not a very formidable one, it should be mentioned, however. Not long ago the FCC suggested TV commercials were too much and too many. The broadcasters promptly lobbied the House of Representatives into passing a bill preventing the FCC from doing anything about it.

In last week's call to arms, Stanton told his affiliates that the FCC-proposed 50 per cent ownership of programs rules "are like to make it very difficult for us sensibly to plan an orderly and balanced schedule."

WAS STANTON referring to this season's CBS balanced schedule on Wednesday nights which include five comedy shows in a row—"Mister Ed," "My Living Doll," "Beverly Hillbillies," "Dick Van Dyke" and "Cara Williams"?

If the FCC was allowed to control a network's ownership prophesied it would mean there would be evenings when the network could not provide the affiliate with programs. He did not explain how networks managed to fill every prime-time hour before they decided to own most of the shows.

"But let's get away from the Foggy Bottom of Washington," continued Stanton, "and have a look at where we stand. The CBS Television Network is now in its 12th consecutive year as the world's largest advertising medium and is completing its 11th season as the world's most popular television network."

Now there is something for the affiliates to put into their new shiny, black leather attache cases and take home with them.

Man Gets 1-20 Years For Slaying Ohioan

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — A Lawrence County man, Arthur E. Kinker of near South Point, has been sentenced to 1-20 years in the Ohio Penitentiary for the March 9 slaying of another Lawrence County man, 48-year-old Raymond Pyles.

Kinker pleaded innocent to a second - degree murder indictment but the court accepted his plea of guilty to a manslaughter charge and imposed the sentence Tuesday.

Bellringer Tired

PISA, Italy (AP) — An electric system is being installed to ring the bells in Pisa's famous Leaning Tower, and it is going to save Ezio Ghilardi a lot of climbing. Every day for years the last bellringer of the tower has climbed the 293 steep steps to ring the bells.

Ex-School Board Head Convicted Under Old Law

CLEVELAND (AP) — Conviction of a former suburban school board president on a conflict of interest charge should alert citizens and officials of all Ohio communities to an old and little-used state law, an assistant prosecutor said.

Albert V. Vlasak, 34, who was president of the Garfield Heights Board of Education in 1962-63, was convicted Tuesday by a Common Pleas Court jury that deliberated 1½ hours after a week's trial. Vlasak was charged with taking $2,000 as a consultant for a subcontractor who got a $20,000 contract on an $88,500 project. He admitted receiving the money while he was board president.

Judge Merle Hoddinott delayed sentence, which could be one to 10 years under the 1887 statute, and allowed Vlasak to remain free on $500 bond.

The law prohibits a person holding public office of trust by election or appointment from having an interest in a contract to purchase property, supplies or fire insurance for the governmental unit or public institution with which he is connected.

Man To Get Hearing On Fugitive Warrant

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Ransome Gardner, who police say walked away from an Alabama prison in 1943, will have a hearing in Municipal Court June 10 on a fugitive warrant.

Gardner, 48, is free on $500 bond. He was picked up Monday by Youngstown police from information provided by prison officials in Montgomery, Ala.

Youngstown detectives said Gardner had served two or three months of a 10-year term for robbery before his escape. He has no record of arrests here and has worked for 13 years for the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., police said. He has lived in Youngstown for 22 years.

Canton Councilmen Sued Over Project

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — City councilmen have been sued in the controversy over Canton's $2.4 million urban renewal project.

The 16 members were subpoenaed Tuesday, and the Ohio Supreme Court has given the city until June 12 to file an answer why the suit should not be carried through. A court order is asked in the suit to require council to put the issue on the ballot.

The suit was filed by Richard J. Wingerter, one of five petitioners for a public vote on the urban renewal poject.

Job Mishap Fatal

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A crane boom fell and killed William Lough, 45, of Canton Tuesday at Akron-Canton Airport where he was working as a steel setter on Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.'s new hangar.

Wanted: Man Who Drives, Drinks On Job

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wanted: A young man who drives and drinks on the job.

The Wisconsin Bureau of Personnel listed these among the qualifications in a notice seeking a traveling investigator in the State Beverage and Cigarette Tax Division "to enforce the laws protecting minors."

The bureau said it sought a man 21-30 years old with the ability to drink moderately, drive a car, and work nights and weekends.

Churchill Name Eyed

NEW YORK (AP) — The Board of Education said Tuesday it is considering naming a new high school on Manhattan's West Side after the late Sir Winston Churchill. The school is scheduled to open next fall.

OFF THE RECORD

"Naturally I seem stupid to my teacher—she's a college graduate."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I care for slate and terrazzo floors?

A.—Dust with a soft brush or vacuum cleaner, and wash with warm suds. Rinse and wipe dry. If your floor is new, wait at least a week before washing it to allow the cement to set. Spills can be wiped up with a damp cloth. A wax finish (any type) can be used to make slate floor dark and glossy. Terrazzo floors should not be waxed unless they are "sealed." If sealed, they can be waxed if desired.

Q.—How can I clean plaster casts?

A.—Swab them with cold liquid starch, and when dry, the dirt will come off with the starch, leaving the casts as clean and white as when new.

Q.—Do you advocate the use of cleaning fluid for white felt hats?

A.—Not too much, since this could turn the hats yellow in time. Instead, mix equal parts of cornmeal, salt and flour and rub this into the felt. Let stay overnight, then brush out thoroughly. Or, make a paste of plaster of paris and benzine, rub over the hat and let dry before brushing off.

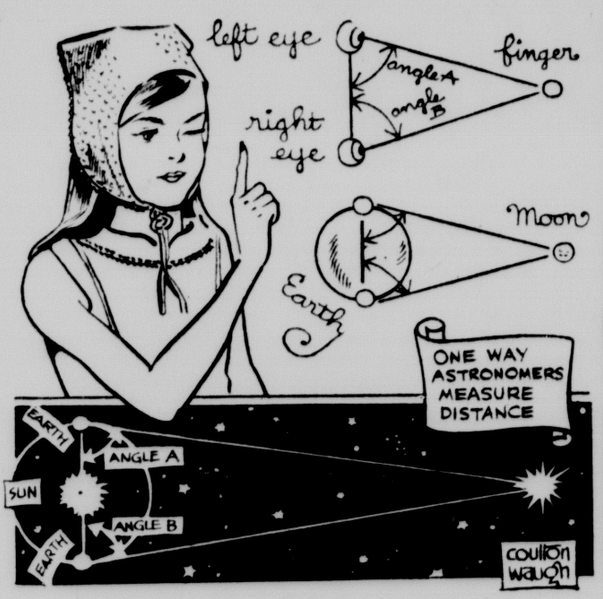
Q.—How can I transfer the perfume from a big bottle into a smaller one without spilling any?

A.—Enlist the aid of a glass sipping straw, or an ordinary soda straw. Insert the straw into the larger bottle, allowing it to touch the bottom, then place your index finger over the upper end of the straw, thus creating a vacuum which holds the perfume inside the straw while you make the transfer.

Q.—Is there any way I can make my own fingernail polish remover?

A.—A couple of ounces of acetone from your drugstore and you'll have a supply of polish remover that will last a long time — economical too.

Junior Editors Quiz on DISTANCES



QUESTION: How do astronomers find out the distance between the heavenly bodies?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Karen is looking at her finger with one eye, the other being shut. But when she uses only the other eye, the finger seems to change its position. This is because of the different angles made by each eye (diagram.) By using the distance between eyes and these angles, it would be easy to figure out the distance from eyes to finger, using mathematics. This same system can be used for finding distances between Earth and many other heavenly bodies. The middle diagram shows two observations being taken of the moon from opposite sides of the earth at the same time. In this way, Earth's distance away from the moon can be determined. The stars (lower diagram) are so very far away that the distance to only the closest ones can be determined in this way. Observations can be taken in January, when Earth is on one side of the sun, and again in July, when it is on the opposite side, thus getting two angles, A and B, necessary to measure distance to a close star. For more distant stars, astronomers use another method, which is based on the dimming and brightening of certain variable stars, which are found in many parts of the visible universe.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Angles are measured in degrees. Hold out your left forefinger pointing straight ahead, and the forefinger of your right hand pointing out directly to the side. The distance between the two will be 90 degrees. Move the side arm halfway to the other; you will have 45 degrees.

Going Back To Alaska

Georgia Youth Eyes Gold Claim For College Funds

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — Steve Deakins is going back to Alaska Thursday — to work a gold-mining claim he hopes will yield enough to put him through college.

Deakins, 20, is joint owner of the claim, near Anchorage, with Ed Bowers, a geologist and licensed prospector and a friend of the Deakins family.

"We traveled around Alaska and the Yukon before staking the claim," he said. "The United States and Canada have an agreement that allows Americans to file claims in the Yukon and Canadians to prospect on American soil."

Bowers previously had a claim but last year's earthquake destroyed it. He returned with Deakins to start work from scratch.

Deakins says he will be in Alaska about 4½ months this year. He and Bowers hope to build a cabin while working their claim.

He plans to return to Georgia next winter and enter college where he would like to major in geology and then go back to Alaska.

Deakins says: "Many kids go right to college without being really sure of what they want to do. That's when a lot of them begin flunking out. I think I will be better prepared by waiting."

Claim jumpers? They're no problem, reports Deakins. There is nobody around particularly interested in "jumping," he said.

The son of a minister, the Rev. H. B. Deakins of Olive Springs Baptist church in Marietta, the younger Deakins attended Osborne High School.

How did he happen to go to Alaska? Bowers, when he was due to return last summer, offered him an air ticket to Anchorage if he would lend a hand.

Deakins says he accepted — eagerly.

"It's a great country," he declared.

Red China's Keeping Eye On Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Whatever attention Communist China is paying its other frontiers, it is not forgetting Quemoy, the Nationalist island just off the Chinese mainland.

Peking's forces ordinarily bombard the island on odd-numbered days and refrain from shelling it on even-numbered days, in accord with an announced pattern. But over the years there have been nearly 500 lapses from shelling on odd-numbered days.

The Communists have made no new attempt to crush Quemoy since their massive effort in the summer of 1958.

But there have been some flareups, including massive bombardments which marked President Dwight D. Eisenhower's visit to Formosa in June 1960.

Since the big eruption in 1958, Communist shelling of Quemoy has had two main objectives—harassment and propaganda.

More than half the shells fired carry only enough explosives to burst them and scatter leaflets.

In the first four months of this year the Communists, by Nationalist count, have fired an average of 666 shells a month at Quemoy and its satellite islands.

Upward of 70,000 troops garrison the Quemoy Islands, which have a total area of about 57 square miles and civilian population of about 50,000.

Quemoy, which the Chinese call Kinmen, meaning "Golden Gate," accounts for 50.5 square miles of the area.

Quemoy in 1949 had to import practically all its food. It still has to get rice from Formosa but is self-sufficient in vegetables, fish, poultry, fruit and pigs.

Dock Worker At Cleveland Inherits Nearly $1 Million

CLEVELAND (AP) — John Godfrey has inherited nearly $1 million. What does he plan to do with it?

—Split it with his brother.

—Stay in the same neighborhood.

—Not spend it for anything fancy.

—Probably get an unlisted telephone number.

"We'll try not to let the money change our way of life," said the $140-a-week dock worker for a trucking firm. Godfrey, 53, of suburban Lyndhurst, inherited $902,000 from Miss Mary Godfrey, an aunt who died in Cincinnati in January.

The announcement was made Tuesday by the family attorney, Albert Wettstein of Cincinnati.

Miss Godfrey, a 75-year - old spinster, made the fortune dabbling in the stock market. Her family had passed on savings over the years and she invested mostly in blue-chip stocks and government securities.

Godfrey, father of two young boys and a girl, has agreed to give 40 per cent of the inheritance to his brother Robert, 45, of Cincinnati. Robert was left $5,000 by his aunt's will.

"There's enough for both of us," Godfrey said.

Mrs. Godfrey said the family probably would stay in the same neighborhood. "We like it here," she said. "We don't want people to think we're snooty because of the money." They live in a modest, ranch type house.

The parents have permitted no pictures to be taken because, they said, they want to protect the children, Johnny, 7, Ella Marie, 6, and Robert, 5. Mrs. Godfrey said the phone started ringing once the news was out.

"We probably will get an unlisted number," she said.

Mrs. Godfrey said her husband plans to take the day off today—but only because she has a doctor's appointment. "He'll be back to work tomorrow, though," she said, "loading and unloading trucks."

Going Back To Alaska

Georgia Youth Eyes Gold Claim For College Funds

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — Steve Deakins is going back to Alaska Thursday — to work a gold-mining claim he hopes will yield enough to put him through college.

Deakins, 20, is joint owner of the claim, near Anchorage, with Ed Bowers, a geologist and licensed prospector and a friend of the Deakins family.

"We traveled around Alaska and the Yukon before staking the claim," he said. "The United States and Canada have an agreement that allows Americans to file claims in the Yukon and Canadians to prospect on American soil."

Bowers previously had a claim but last year's earthquake destroyed it. He returned with Deakins to start work from scratch.

Deakins says he will be in Alaska about 4½ months this year. He and Bowers hope to build a cabin while working their claim.

He plans to return to Georgia next winter and enter college where he would like to major in geology and then go back to Alaska.

Deakins says: "Many kids go right to college without being really sure of what they want to do. That's when a lot of them begin flunking out. I think I will be better prepared by waiting."

Claim jumpers? They're no problem, reports Deakins. There is nobody around particularly interested in "jumping," he said.

The son of a minister, the Rev. H. B. Deakins of Olive Springs Baptist church in Marietta, the younger Deakins attended Osborne High School.

How did he happen to go to Alaska? Bowers, when he was due to return last summer, offered him an air ticket to Anchorage if he would lend a hand.

Deakins says he accepted — eagerly.

"It's a great country," he declared.

Bob Petit of the St. Louis Hawks, who has announced his retirement as a player, finished his National Basketball Association career with 23,344 points for 11 seasons.
